Superforts Smash Tokyo

TWENTY-FIRST BOMBER COMMAND, Saipan, Nov. 24 (AP)—A mighty armada of Superfortresses blasted Tokyo today with hundreds of tons of bombs, opening what Gen. Arnold said was "an attack which will be carried on relentlessly from the air until the day of land-sea invasion" of Japan's home islands. An undisclosed number of Superforts roared from newly-completed air bases here at dawn for the 3000-mile flight which marked the initial attack on Japan's capital by land-based planes and its first bombing since April 18, 1942.

Brig. Gen. Emmett "Rosie" O'Donnell of Jamaica, N. Y., 38-year-old former West Point football coach, led the historic daylight assault, believed to be the largest attack yet made on Japan's homeland.

O'Donnell Boy in R. I. Proud As His Dad Blasts Tokyo

PORTSMOUTH, R. I., Nov. 24—Twelve-year-old Dale O'Donnell, youngest student at the Portsmouth Priory School, was about the proudest boy in the land today—unless you except his brother, Patrick, back home in Jamaica, Long Island.

It was their dad, Brig. Gen. Emmett ("Rosie") O'Donnell, who led the formations of B-29 Superfortresses in the bombing raid on Tokyo.

And appropriately enough, yesterday was Dale's birthday. The general's timing was perfect on that score, too.

Here, every teacher and Benedictine brother was sharing Dale's joy at his father's historic achievement.

His mother, Mrs. Lorraine O'Donnell, had visited him yesterday to help him celebrate his birthday and left for their Long Island home today.

It isn't often that the youngest student at any school becomes a figure of great importance to his classmates, but Dale was top man today, a little awed by his fame but proud of the West Pointer who is his dad.

Brig. Gen. O'Donnell made a true prophet of the man who wrote about him in the West Point yearbook 17 years ago. The scribe set down:

"He is an important factor in Army athletics. In the next 30 years he will be an important factor in the machine of war."

In Dec., 1941, he bagged four Jap planes in the Philippines area and made it plain his historian knew what he was writing about.

Blond-thatched Dale may make history himself one of these days if he follows his father to West Point, a tradition treasured by many Army families.

Today he is doing his best to concentrate on his studies at the Catholic school, but word of his relationship to the flying general swept through the classrooms.

He thought there would be great rejoicing at his Long Island home, too, and he rather wished all the O'Donnells could be together for it, but he was living in a very happy sphere and he knew his brother Patrick would write him about their celebration.

Dispatches from Saipan said the brigadier general gave his men a typical sports pep talk before they took off. Dale went over these stories with much interest. He read his father's words:

"Tomorrow the season opens. We will meet the enemy on his ground."

Robots Again Strafe Southern England

LONDON, Nov. 24 (INS)—The British civilian populace today sustained increased casualties as a result of an early morning attack in southern England by German vengeance weapons, either the V-1 buzz bombers or V-2 rocket bombs, or both.

An official communique disclosed that the attack lasted from dawn yesterday until 7 a. m.

Yanks Folding Jap Leyte Line

MACARTHUR HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 24 (AP)—Mud-slogging American infantrymen lunged southward from Limon today after capturing that bastion of the Japanese Yamashita line in the climax of the longest and bitterest fighting of the Leyte campaign.

The Japanese First Division has been practically destroyed, Gen. MacArthur said in announcing that the Yankee 32d had smashed into and through Limon yesterday.

Easier country lies ahead, but it was emphasized this does not mean the heavy fighting is over.

Twins Captives

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24 (AP)—PFC Edwin Heister and PFC Joseph Heister, 21-year-old twins, who enlisted together, went overseas together and were reported missing on the same day, now are reported prisoners of war in Germany, their family was informed.

The aerial task force was from the recently-established 21st Bomber Command of the 20th Army Air Force, operating from the Marianas under command of Brig. Gen. Hayward S. "Possum" Hansell, Jr., of San Antonio, Tex. The first use of these bases south and east of Tokyo creates a two-way aerial seque against Japan's vital industries, with other B-29s from China.

First official announcements of today's raid merely said a "sizeable task force" of Superforts "attacked industrial targets in Tokyo." Another communique was promised when further details were available.

(Tokyo, acknowledging the assault four hours after its announcement in the United States, said 70 Superforts hit the southern and northern outskirts of the capital early this afternoon, Japanese time.)

The broadcast, heard by the Federal Communications Commission, claimed the B-29s failed to attain any tangible results but residential sections, including one hospital, were slightly damaged. It said three were shot down. There was no Allied confirmation.

Tokyo's great, sprawling industrial area is ringed by airfields and anti-aircraft defenses. recent lone B-29 reconnaissance flights showed. Shipping and shipbuilding yards are located in nearby Yokohama.

Early reports gave no indication of the bomb loads carried. But the Army Air Force revealed yesterday in Washington that a Superforts can carry at least 10 tons of bombs. Some B-29

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Russian Fourth Ukrainian army was on the move again today in eastern Czechoslovakia after a four-week fighting lull.

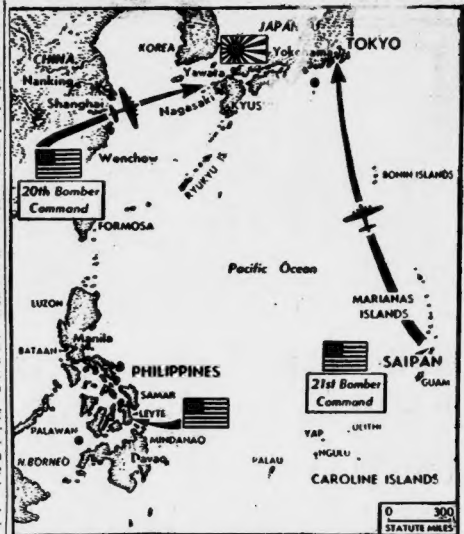

Moscow announced the fresh drive by Marshal Petrov's forces already had ground out gains up to 16 miles on a 25-mile front west of Ungvar. They were, apparently aimed at the big highway and rail hub of Kassa, has overrun 30 populated places as well as Casp, railway junction 15 miles south of Ungvar.

Kassa lies about 45 miles north northwest of Mikole, itself threatened from the south and east by units of Marshal Malinovsky's second Ukrainian army sweeping through Hungary.

British Cross Cosina in Italy

ROME, Nov. 24 (INS)—Striking with renewed vigor, British Eighth Army troops today began through 24 hours of bitter fighting to forge a bridgehead across the Cosina river south of Faenza on the Italian front.

Along with American Fifth Army troops, the British units hurled back a number of German attacks. Wilson described the counter attacks against the Eighth Army troops as determined assaults.

TOKYO TAGGED—Taking off from bases on Saipan, in the Marianas, Yank Superforts hammered Tokyo today. The attackers were from the recently established 21st Bomber Command, now teamed with the China-based 20th Bomber Command for two-way aerial blows (arrows) at the Jap homeland.

Here's Jap View Of B-29 Smash

By the Associated Press

A Japanese imperial communique reported about 70 Superforts participated in the raid on Tokyo today (Japanese time) and claimed three were shot down.

The communique, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission in a Tokyo broadcast, said the B-29s raided Tokyo for about two hours, starting at 12:20 p. m.

"Our damages have been slight," the imperial communique said, "and the war result confirmed up to now is three enemy planes shot down."

Previous unofficial Tokyo radio broadcasts also tried to minimize the effect of the air bombardment.

Domei, official Japanese news agency, said the raiders carried only light missiles and incendiaries and that they flew at a great height.

"All bombs dropped by the enemy planes were wide of their apparently intended targets," the broadcast said.

Domei said Japanese civilian defenses functioned efficiently in quelling fires.

The broadcast claimed the bombers still were in the sky over Tokyo when the San Francisco radio broadcast an announcement of the attack at 1:30 p. m. (Japanese time).

FCC said all Tokyo radios appeared to have been broadcasting as usual at the time of the air raid.

Tokyo said the Superforts flying in "ten-odd groups, each comprising several bombers," unloaded bombs and incendiaries on the southern and northern outskirts of Tokyo early this afternoon (Japanese time).

"Residential sections, including one hospital, were slightly damaged," the propaganda broadcast said.

"Several enemy planes also appeared over central Japan," the broadcast said, "but fled without causing any damage."

Domei admitted some fires were started in Tokyo, but insisted they were quickly put out. And it indirectly admitted major targets were bombed, reporting "practically no damage was suffered by important installations."

SOUTHEAST ASIA HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, Nov. 24 (AP)—Chinese troops have driven into the Japanese stronghold of Bhamo, key to central Burma, from the south and the northeast, Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten's command announced today.

A communique said strong Japanese positions were breached at two points in the southern part of the town while a single Chinese column deepened the wedge in the northern suburbs. Bhamo was surrounded by Allied forces nearly two weeks ago.

FIRE B29 GUNS BY REMOTE CONTROL

By VERN HAUGLAND
SAIPAN, Nov. 24 (AP)—May be it's all in the mind but the men who fire the guns on B-29's feel safer because they work by remote control.

From turrets within the Superfortress they fire their 50-calibers' mounted outside many feet from their positions, and the roar of guns is hardly audible within. This contrasts to the B-23's and other bombers aboard which the deafening gun clamor, powder smoke and steady hail of discharged shells makes a bedlam of gunners' compartments.

The use of central fire control system is Superfort's was explained today with the announcement of the Saipan-based raids on Tokyo.

Lead Leader Brig. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell, Jr., said:

"The B-29 is a damn bad plane to attack with its system of gunnery worked through a central computer."

"The gunner looks into the sight which he adjusts with a couple of knobs, keeps the attacking plane framed in the sight, tracks it in and fires the guns by pressing a button."

"All corrections are taken care of by the sighting computer. Each gunner has primary control of certain gun turrets but can relinquish it to secondary control of other gunners."

Brig. Gen. Hayward Hansell, Jr., commander of the 21st Bomber Command of the Global 20th Air Force, disclosed one of the greatest problems in the B-29 was to cool the engines. Top improvements along this line have increased operating efficiency noticeably.

The heavy monster—which when fully loaded might weigh 135,000 pounds—also presents a big inertia problem. Pilots avoid changing the power sets, because each time they jockey the throttle the cost in gasoline to try to regain speed is tremendous.

Tokyo Is Ideal Military Target

By The Associated Press
Tokyo, bombed today by a large force of B-29 Superfortresses, is the capital of an empire which now claims dominion over nearly half a billion human beings. It is the government buildings, including the general staff, war office and navy office buildings and the official residence of Premier Kuniaki Koiso from which the real government of the empire is conducted.

Nearby, beyond the palace plaza, is a thickly congested section of modern buildings, the Marunouchi district, economic capital.

Here also is Tokyo central station, hub of the country's communications system. No railways run through Tokyo. All start there.

The airmen who pounded Tokyo were briefed to avoid the imperial palace.

The emperor's death by bombing would not decrease his divinity to the curiously illogical Japanese. To them, the throne is the symbol of this semi-mystical worship.

So strongly imbedded is the emperor concept that his bomb-dealt death would unite the Japanese to a final death stand as no other single incident would. It would unleash full savagery in the brutal battle under way, without accomplishing any result of value for the Allies. The people would carry on under the light of the throne itself.

The only way the Allies can reach the great mass of Japanese people is through the emperor.

Ranged about the palace are

French Gain But British Lose Hoven

By WILLIAM FRYE
LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP)—French armor cleaned out the whole western part of Strasbourg today, but the Germans asserted a surprise attempt to capture a bridge there across the Rhine had been frustrated.

On the hottest corner of the western front, however, a violent German counterattack with six or seven divisions, half of them armored, threw the British Second Army out of Hoven on the muddy Cologne plain, three miles north-east of captured Gellenkirchen.

Flame-throwers were used. Lt. Gen. Dempsey's men stood firm on high ground overlooking the Wurm valley north of the levelled hamlet. Farther north, the British absorbed all German counterattacks and inched on, yard by bloody yard.

Flanking the British to the south, the American Ninth and First Army offensives in the valley of the Roer slowed to a sticky crawl or even were checked entirely while the Germans threw wave on wave of counterattacks at Allied lines. The fighting centered on approaches to Julich, a highway town on the Roer, 25 miles from ruined Cologne.

The American Third Army beyond Metz captured Oberkuren and deepened its northern wedge into Germany with gains of two to four miles. Patton edged slowly toward the Saar industrial and rail center of Saarbrücken.

British troops in Holland moved within easy field gun range of the Maas river town of Venlo, a mile and a half away.

Snow, rain and fog slowed drives in the Vosges mountains and beyond Belfort, where American and French units were striving to bag thousands of Germans of the 19th army.

Front reports said fighting was in progress in the narrow, crooked streets of Strasbourg, capital of Alsace-Lorraine and a quaint fortress city of 193,000, two miles west of the Rhine but linked to the river by a canal.

French tanks and guns rolled through a ring of 14 old forts of the defunct Maginot line and through some of the factories from which Hitler obtained machines, iron, textiles and leather. Resistance appeared light.

American infantry poured steadily into the snow of Vosges passes and the breached Saverne gap toward Strasbourg, the capture of which appeared imminent. Maj. Gen. Wade H. Haislip, commander of the U. S. 15th Corps, which fashioned the break-through, declared yesterday he would eat Christmas dinner in the middle of Germany. Two German generals and 3,000 prisoners were taken Thanksgiving Day by Haislip's men.

To recapture Hoven, Marshal Gen. von Rundstedt dispatched three tank, one tank grenadier and two or three infantry divisions and two tank battalions. They rewon the town and shook the soggy countryside with the violence of their blows. But with fixed bayonets and under one of the heaviest barrages of the war, British Tommies in the main stood their ground against flame-throwers, tanks and the charging riflemen. Field Marshal Montgomery's spokesman said:

"The German is smashing at us hard. His troops are of the best. He is determined to block our advance to the Roer."

The French drive into Strasbourg sealed off the Rhineland escape route for remaining troops of the German 19th Army, once estimated to number 70,000 men.

At the north end of the western front British forces entered Bleick, two miles from the Dutch border city of Venlo on the Maas.

U. S. Ninth troops captured Pattern, three miles southwest of Julich, and beat off counterattacks west of Linlich.

On their right the U. S. First Army repulsed four infantry and tank counterattacks and inched closer to Weisweiler.

Probe Whitman Gestapo Plot

In the biggest local spy scare of the war, the FBI and State Police snapped into action today after a Whitman farmer told of being robbed of $2500 because he refused to aid German "Gestapo agents" in a widespread sabotage plot.

Guards immediately were thrown around Hanover powder mills on the strength of the insistence of Henry Schmikler, 38, of High st. Whitman, that the robbery occurred when he turned down a cash offer to blow up the powder mills and both Cape Cod canal bridges as well.

The "Gestapo agents," revealed as two men and two women, were described vividly by the hysterical Schmikler, who was found drugged and bound to a chair in his living room. He said he knew two of them as heads of a concentration camp in Augsburg, Germany, where he claimed to have been a prisoner until he came here as a refugee in 1938.

FBI agents checked on his story while State police sent out descriptions of the "Gestapo agents," two of them described as well dressed women, both wearing expensive Persian lamb coats.

The story broke dramatically when Constant Vaughn, aged farm hand at Schmikler's turkey farm, entered the farmhouse to find his boss tied up. He ran to summon neighbors and police soon listened to an alarming story. After being taken by a physician for shock and hysteria, Schmikler told the following story to State Police Lt. J. Norman Butler, Cpl. Raymond Moran and Whitman Police Chief Leroy L. Phinney.

He said he was counting turkey receipts at his home when the door opened and the four intruders stepped in. He said he recognized one of the men as a "George Lindler," described as the overlord at the Augsburg concentration camp, and one of the women as a "Mrs. Koch," the latter's secretary in the "Gestapo."

He added he had seen "Lindler" once murder eight priests and toss hand grenades at other prisoners.

Schmikler declared his visitors offered him a huge sum of money to join them in sabotaging the National Fireworks plant in Hanover and leveling the Bourne and Sagamore bridges. He said he was attacked when he refused, adding that "Lindler" whipped out two pistols and "Mrs. Koch" broke out a sub-machine gun.

They scooped up his money and left, he said, after "Lindler" had dissuaded "Mrs. Koch" from shooting him on the spot.

Search of the house by Lt. Butler soon afterward uncovered $1143 in an upstairs bedroom drawer—a sum Schmikler described as money set aside to pay a grain bill soon due. He said the money had gone undiscovered by the robbers.

He begged Chief Phinney to leave a man to guard the money, but the latter took it to police headquarters for safekeeping instead.

During the visit of the "Gestapo agents," who, he said, departed in an automobile, Schmikler's three children were asleep upstairs, while his wife, Elisappeto, was visiting in Brockton. The children are Rosalie, 8, Marcel, 6, and Shirley, 2.

End All Lend-Lease On V-Day FD Plan

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—President Roosevelt told Congress today Lend-Lease and reverse Lend-Lease "should end with the war."

The statement appeared to be a pointed reply to suggestions some sent Lend-Lease assistance be continued to Britain and possibly other Allied nations even after the European and Pacific wars.

Mr. Roosevelt had previously called for continuation of lend-lease so long as Japan remained in the war.

"Lend-lease and reverse lend-lease are a system of combined war supply," he said today. "They should end with the war. But the United States partnership must go on and must grow stronger."

This policy declaration wound up a letter by which the President transmitted to Congress a detailed report of reverse lend-lease from Britain. The British put out a similar report a few hours earlier covering about the same statistics. This showed the United Kingdom had supplied to June 30 munitions and other goods and services valued at $2,437,062,000 and Australia, New Zealand and India supplied $911,065,000—a grand total of $3,348,127,000.

The United States supplied to the United Kingdom for the period ended June 30, a total of $9,321,549,000 of lend-lease and to all the Allies a total of $28,270,351,000 worth. But Mr. Roosevelt urged no comparisons be made on a dollar basis.

He summed up his estimate of the value of Britain's reverse lend-lease contributions by saying without it "we would surely have been forced to delay invasion of France for many months."

"Reverse lend-lease," he told Congress, "has played an essential part in the stupendous job of preparing for and supplying the great Allied offensives in Europe."

"It would have required 1000 ships to send across the Atlantic what we received for our men through reverse lend-lease from the United Kingdom."

"We were able to use these 1000 ships instead for carrying supplies and equipment from the United States."

"For the war against Japan, United States forces have received increased quantities of supplies and services as reverse lend-lease from Australia, New Zealand and India. These were the months in which forces under Gen. MacArthur were completing the New Guinea campaign and preparing the campaign for the liberation of the Philippines."

Find Handbag?

Mrs. Eileen Connors of Ridgewood at Dorchester, appealed to the Boston American today for aid in finding her handbag, which contains the railroad ticket with which she planned to journey to Pennsylvania tonight to see her husband before he shipped overseas.

Mrs. Connors believes she left the bag in a taxicab she took last night from Eliot sq., Roxbury, to her home. Her 2½-year-old child was with her at the time. She asked police to check with cab drivers.

HELLO GIRLS BACK ON JOBS, STRIKE OVER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (INS)—A grave national threat to wartime communications dissolved today as telephone operators streamed back to their war-busy switchboards at the behest of strike leaders.

Action by Pres. Roosevelt to avert complete paralysis of the nation's telephone system was averted when union officials agreed to submit their disputes to the War Labor Board for settlement.

Governmental seizure of telephone properties and Army operation of key exchanges was made unnecessary when 5000 Ohio strikers, focal point of a slowly spreading national disturbance, were ordered back to work by Robert Pollock, president of the Ohio Federation of Telephone Workers.

Pollock, who previously had appealed for support from 41 other state unions, urged that sympathy strikes be terminated immediately, and his request ended walkouts in Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and the National Capital.

The dramatic but short-lived communications crisis focused a spotlight upon the complaints of the telephone workers and assured speedy action by the WLB to iron out the dispute. In both Dayton, O., and Washington, the cause of complaint was the employment of out-of-town operators at wages in excess of those paid local girls.

800 Missions

For Navy Group

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Eight hundred individual missions without a single cancellation was the record hung up by Navy Patrol Squadron 202 in an eventful ten months' tour of the Pacific.

The squadron, commanded by Com. R. W. Leeman, Manchester, N. H., was officially designated as "VPB 202," but was better known as "Leeman's Demons."

The Navy reported today the "big boat" squadron, veteran of combat duty against both the Nazis and the Japanese, is home for a rest after a Pacific itinerary involving more than a million miles of flying.

The tail gunner, William B. Pierce, aviation machine's mate, first class, 32 Pierce st., Westmouth, Mass., was knocked unconscious when an anti-aircraft shell ripped through the tail section, but recovered in time to man his guns and strafe an enemy vessel.

North Station Flag Puzzle Hinges on Where You Stand

Now if this were a schoolroom, a ship's mast, or a street or platform, there would be no problem at all. The rules are clear.

But it's the concourse of the North Station, with entrances and exits in every direction, that's giving the Boston & Maine R. R. a headache. The rule-makers for the proper hanging of flags never mentioned stations.

Hundreds of commuters have complained that the two American flags, hanging at either end of the North Station concourse, are incorrect.

Although it is generally believed that the union should be at the observer's left, a person standing in the center of the concourse sees stars on the flag near the Boston Garden entrance at his left, but the opposite flag with its stars on his right.

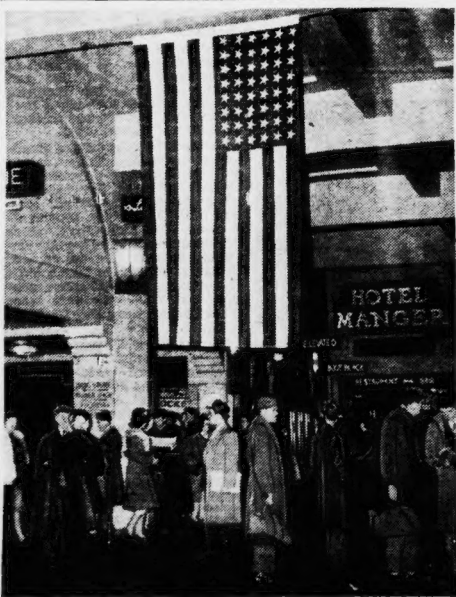

"Standing at Nashua st. entrance, the U. S. Treasury flag takes precedence. Old Glory should be on the left hand side," says an Army man.

"Both American flags should be hung in the center instead of at the sides," says another.

"The Union should be away from any wall," said a civilian criticizing the position of the flag near the Garden.

Many have complained because the flags aren't taken down at night. To this, B&M officials, anxious to please, say they consulted the Army and Navy and learned there is no regulation to that effect—a flag is taken down at night only to save it against the weather.

Probe Negro Lynching In Murder of 2 Women

PIKEVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 24—Gov. Prentice Cooper today ordered a full investigation into the lynching of a young Negro trusty who was accused of the murders of the daughter and wife of the superintendent of the Tennessee Training and Agricultural School.

The Governor instructed State Highway Patrol Chief Lynn Bomar to post a $500 reward for the arrest and conviction of those guilty of removing the young trusty from the county jail and shooting him to death on the grounds.

James I. Scales, the trusty, who had a long record in Nashville Juvenile Court, was brought to the jail several hours after Mrs. Gwendolyn McKinnie was found dead and her mother, Mrs. H. E. Scott, dying in their home on the school grounds. Mrs. McKinnie was the wife of Lt. Charles H. McKinney, an air force officer.

Mrs. Ruth Douglas, a cook, who was in charge at the jail, said that she released Scales to a small group of men who said they had been sent to return him to the school.

W. S. Neil, assistant superintendent, in charge at the school while Scott was on a visit to Nashville, said that some time after sending Scales to the jail he heard a commotion and when he went out of his home he found the Negro surrounded by a group of men who had thrown a rope over a tree limb.

Neil said he told them they were making a mistake and that "I don't want anything like that done here." The rope was tossed aside, he said, but then there were shots and he dropped to the ground to avoid being hit. Scales was killed and before leaving, the men who had shot him urged Negro students to look at the body, "as an example." Neil said he could not identify any of the men in the lynching party.

Before Scales was taken to the jail, Neil said he asked the Negro if he had any help in attacking the women and the youth had said he did not and added, "I don't know why I did it."

Want a Canine Army Hero? 300 Dog Vets Need Homes

Do you want an Army-trained war dog, a canine veteran with an honorable discharge, one that will respond to the companionship and affection to be found in a home?

It's quite possible. Approximately 300 such dogs, K-9 heroes, will be available before the end of the year. The Treasury Department and Dogs for Defense, Inc., have worked out a plan to find homes for them, because their former owners are not in a position to take them back.

Harry I. Caesar, president of Dogs for Defense, Inc., announced today:

"It is not the intention of the War Department, the Treasury or Dogs for Defense, Inc., to permit the dogs, which have faithfully served their country, to become the object of barter or auction. The one consideration is to make sure they find good homes."

"The dogs will be priced at a figure to cover the expense of handling, transportation and equipment. This will vary from $15 to $25, depending on the distance from Ft. Robinson, Neb., where the dogs go through their rehabilitation course before being discharged."

Caesar added: "Whoever wishes to offer a home to a K-9 hero may make application to Dogs for Defense, Inc., 22 East 80th st., New York City. Representatives of this organization will investigate and applicants, able to provide good homes, will then be permitted to negotiate with the Treasury Department."

With each dog the Army will send an honorable discharge, collar and leash. The purchaser will receive from Dogs for Defense, Inc., a copy of the official Army training manual, which will explain the commands with which the dog is familiar, and give detailed advice on their grooming and feeding.

In explaining why the plan has been adopted, even though dogs are still being recruited for the armed services, Caesar stated:

"It is exactly the same situation in which the armed forces find themselves in dealing with men. Some men do not fit into the highly specialized work of modern war and they are given honorable discharges at a time when new men are being drafted. Those dogs which are being discharged met the requirements of sentry work and guard duty but did not prove adapted for more advanced training. Aggressive young dogs are still being sought."

Torture Murder Trial Resumes

Trial of John L. "Limex" Wilson and Francis J. Murray, charged with the murder of Mrs. Catherine McGinley, 85, Charlestown widow, resumed in Suffolk Superior Court today following a recess in which the jury was taken for a turkey dinner at Monponset and afterwards to a Boston theater.

Prior to the holiday recess, Dr. William J. Brickley, medical examiner, completed three days of testimony during which he told the court the aged widow had lived for a half hour after being terribly beaten.

Teachers' Union Move Started

Seeking to unionize Boston's 5400 teachers, Joseph Landis, president of the American Federation of Teachers, was in conference with school officials here today.

He was introduced to members of the school committee by Harry Grages, secretary of the Boston Central Labor Union.

Although Arthur L. Gould, superintendent of schools, indicated that he personally is opposed to teachers joining a union, he assured Landis that there is no official opposition to the movement in the school administration.

1st Naval District Has New Chaplain

Replacing Capt. Roy L. Lewis who has been assigned to sea duty in the Mediterranean, Capt. Albert E. Stone, of Clarendon ter, Swampscott, today was named chaplain of the First Naval District and the Boston Navy Yard.

A graduate of Lowell School, Jamaica Plain, Capt. Stone served aboard the U.S. Colossus in the Pacific area shortly after the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor.

For the past 15 months he has been chaplain at the Coast Guard Academy, New London, Ct.

Snow Flurries To End in Cold

Snow flurries roused the hopes of Greater Boston kids today for some sliding but the intermittent fall melted in most places as soon as it hit the ground.

The weather bureau said the snow "showers" would end tonight and be followed by cloudy and colder tomorrow. There were indications, however, that Sunday would bring "nasty" weather with combined rain and snow.

2 Ships to Dip Nov. 30 At Quincy and Bath

The U. S. S. Columbus, a heavy cruiser, and the U. S. S. Benner, a destroyer, will be launched in separate ceremonies at New England shipyards next Thursday.

The Columbus, honoring the Ohio capital, will be launched at the Quincy-Bethlehem yard and christened by Mrs. Edward G. Meyers, nominated by Mayor James A. Rhodes of Columbus.

The Benner will be launched at the Bath Iron Works Corp. shipyard, Bath, Me., and is named in honor of the late Marine Stanley G. Benner, of Arlington. His mother, Mrs. Herman C. Benner, will be sponsor.

Bay Staters Enjoy 3d Army Turkeys

By LEWIS HAWKINS

WITH THE U. S. THIRD ARMY, Nov. 23 (delayed) (AP)—Damp, mud-stained soldiers in the U. S. Third Army's forward areas got their turkey today, with praction but its 101st Regiment is still predominantly from Massachusetts. Its first battalion is commanded by Lt. Col. Lawrence Kirk, 27 Sargent st., Newton, Mass.

Kirk's battalion had fought into Lohr and pushed two companies across a small stream and into Insulver, a mile beyond Lohr. But the stream, which normally is about 40 feet wide, was swollen to 70 feet or more and so deep the men had to swim it with their equipment.

An ammunition platoon under Lt. Sam Raymond (address unavailable) loaded a truck with doors, shutters and odd bits of lumber and drove back to the stream.

Using two poles as a base and nailing the shutters atop them, Raymond and his platoon built a footbridge across which some ammunition was passed by a human chain and hand-carried to the front.

PFC Theodore Lodi, another authority from 24 Cherry st., Plymouth, added, "These cooks of ours did a solid job—even if they aren't from Massachusetts."

The cooks were Corp. Salvatore Esposito, of Ferry st., New Haven, Ct., who used to be a boilermaker, and PFC Joseph Jackson, of 3210 Richter st., Detroit, who sold men's furnishings. They turned out a sound job of roast turkey, dressing, gravy, mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, peas, salad and pineapple and the troops did not seem to mind eating it standing up beside a muddy road.

Some used fenders of trucks as a festive board. Most dinners were at noontime, but one group of the 261st "Yankee" Division command post ate theirs at 2:30 p.m.

Many like PFC Robizinski, 1024 Hope st., Utica, N. Y., (first name unavailable) and PFC George Harris, of 26 Montrose st., Somerville, Mass., ate their turkey beside foxholes dug in around their artillery position.

Only one GI seemed a little disconsolate. He was Antonio Hernandez, 211 South Oregon st., El Paso, Tex., who was on a lonely detail guarding a bridge in the country. He had had only C-ration meat and beans for dinner and he said, "I'm afraid my outfit is having turkey this noon and I don't know whether there will be any left tonight when I am relieved. I hear Texas is not observing the holiday today so maybe they are not counting me."

The 26th Division won its nickname in the First World War when it was almost 100 per cent New England outfit. Now it has many men from all parts of the nation but its 101st Regiment is still predominantly from Massachusetts. Its first battalion is commanded by Lt. Col. Lawrence Kirk, 27 Sargent st., Newton, Mass.

40 Priests Flee B. C. House Fire

Forty priests and brothers were driven to the street early today when fire swept the five-story stone Boston College faculty house in Commonwealth ave., Newton.

Br. Joseph Crossen, S. J., 46, was carried from the building and taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital for treatment for smoke inhalation.

Although the blaze was confined to the fourth floor, priests said heavy damage was caused by water.

Fire Dept. Memorial Mass Wednesday

The annual memorial mass of the Boston fire department will be in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross at 9 a. m. Wednesday, with Archbishop Cushing presiding.

Celebrant of a solemn high mass of requiem will be Rev. Henry J. O'Connell. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. Matthew P. Stapleton, D. D.

GI Senator Says Soldiers Have Own Foreign Policy

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Take it from Bill Jenner, the GI Senator, Americas returning overseas veterans are going to be "the greatest exponents of free enterprise you ever saw."

Further, says the former Army captain who was sworn in 10 days ago as short-term Republican Senator from Indiana, you can look for the veterans to champion "a foreign policy all their own—and all different."

Jenner, who was a ground officer in the air forces before his medical discharge and election to the Senate, found out something about the GI's aspirations and prejudices when he ran a soldiers' discussion group at an old English castle which served as personnel assignment center.

"We were talking about what should be done to preserve peace after the war, and what part the United States should take in international affairs," Jenner recalled, "when this old boy from Iowa stood up."

"I've been hearing something about a quart of milk a day for everybody in the world," the soldier said. "Now I think I know something about that."

"Back home I had to get up at 5 a. m. to milk a bunch of cows. I'll be de-diddle-de-ding-donged if I'm going to get up at 4 to milk for a bunch of Arabs who stole my tent in North Africa!" Jenner said the soldiers' favorite topics are home, personal postwar plans, and what can be done to prevent wars.

Pigskin Shoes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Shoes made of a wartime pigskin—possibly 15,000,000 pairs a year—will be sold nation-free, the OPA announced today.

Elimination of the ration stamp requirement for this future production is intended to encourage use of so-called "bacon rind" pigskin for the uppers of shoes. OPA describes it as "strong and durable" and "largely a wartime development." Soles will be of plastic or rubber. Few men's sizes are planned.

WE LOVE CROWDS

and crowds love us—during the first snow flurry, rain and cold of the winter (Monday, November 6th to be exact) when we had a deluge all day—there were crowds down in Filene's Basement. Crowds came all day. We don't know if they came via the handy tunnel trains direct to our subway doors—but the storm made no difference to the big crowd of shoppers. In all the storm, we sold nearly a thousand fur coats—think of it, that's a lot of fur coats no matter how you look at it. Frequently, you find sidewalk traffic jammed waiting for our doors to open for some big bargain offering and almost every day folks comment on our crowds—"It's the busiest store in town." Only recently sidewalk pedestrians tied up traffic on Hawley Street waiting for the doors to open—and there was such a big crowd of men that we sold about 2000 men's suits and coats at $11 the first hour—Moral—you find crowds where you find bargains!

THE RIGHT HAT-I-tude

...It's a well known fact that a new hat can sometimes do better than a prescribed dose of medicine. Now, we don't know whether that's the reason so many Bostonians come to Filene's Basement's famous military section—but we do know this is a holiday season for women's hats... Every time our Mr. Maletz scoops up a collection of creations from top-flight designers (we wish we could mention the names of some of these ultra-savvy hat geniuses) blondes, brunettes, titans, platinum and silvery tressed women simply swarm in to buy and save. Each one is intent on correcting some particular sample or shapeliness before the other connoisseurs. Any number of women buy all their hats here because they find hi-style fashion at low cost. If you want fashion hat elegance at prices so low they sometimes seem fantastic, follow the crowds with the right HAT-I-tude...

Fire 4 in Plant After Air Crash

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 24 (AP)—Officials of Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft Corp. have disclosed four employees of their company were dismissed as the result of a bomber crash here Wednesday in which six civilian crew members were killed.

The company announcement was made after it had been reported that there weren't enough bolts in the outside wing section of the giant Navy-type Liberator which plunged into a ravine and exploded, starting a brush fire.

The crash occurred soon after the left wing of the craft shook loose from the fuselage.

Little Circus Victims Home for Holiday

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., Nov. 24 (AP)—Barbara Ann, 12, and Mary K. Smith, 4, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Smith, returned to their home Thursday from the Hartford Municipal Hospital, where they had been undergoing treatment for burns received in the circus fire last July.

The girls have undergone a series of skin-grafting operations on their arms. Their mother also was badly burned. After a Thanksgiving feast the sisters returned to the hospital for the final phase of treatment.

Frank Maguire Funeral Tomorrow

Funeral services will be held tomorrow with a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Mary's Church, Georgetown, for Frank Maguire, selectman in that town and well known among sports followers in Greater Boston.

Maguire, a friend of every player on the Red Sox and Braves rosters, is survived by his widow, Maude; two daughters, Dorothy and Catherine, and a brother, George.

Held in Contempt

A sheet of "liar" at a witness in East Cambridge court today resulted in a two-day jail sentence for Mrs. Dorothy Saunders, 40, of Pleasant st., Cambridge, for contempt of court.

Judge Stone continued a charge of assault and battery until tomorrow for disposition.

Mrs. Saunders was charged with assault and battery on Mrs. Doris Sullivan, 35, whose husband is in the service. The outcry came as Mrs. Sullivan was testifying Mrs. Saunders struck her after accusing her of paying undue attention to her husband.

R.H. WHITE'S Washington at Bedford Sts., BOSTON. HUB. or TRO. 7430.

NEAL O'HARA says TAKE IT FROM ME

TODAY'S QUIZ for superior skulls: No. 1. What was the original site of R. H. White's? No. 2. Name 2 things that "White Christmas" should mean to you ... No. 3. What is "size magic"? ... (The answers you'll find somewhere below.)

My dear, lug up a chaise longue: This is the saga of a store—R. H. White's. We have often wondered what Founder White's full name was, so here it is: Ralph Huntington White. And his store is nigh on to being a nonagenarian (that's highbrow Harvard, folks, for 90 years).

We remember the store fondly because back in the flush 1920's we had a complaint, while shaving, that the Little Woman (and she IS little) couldn't locate a pair of size 5½ gloves. R. H. White's didn't write us a letter or call us on the phone. They bought adv. space addressed to Mr. O'H., inviting him to steer the L.W. there. And, by golly, she got 'em—in fact, 4 pairs. (That was when she thought we were rich.) And she still gets 'em there, same size. You have heard of the celebrated Caliph of ancient Bagdad, Haroun-a-Raschid, who liked to dress in unkingly clothes and wander about his city incog, asking folks what they thought of the mighty Caliph and his administration—and he got some mighty favorable answers, so he knew he was doing all right. Well, some day when you enter White's, Miss or Mrs. Shopper, a modest little gentleman may pass you a shopping bag. It might well be the president of the establishment, Mr. Frank Schmandt, who delights in mingling with the customers and hearing what they think of the new and much renovated R. H. White's—which metamorphosis happens to be his masterpiece ... Well, 4 yrs. ago we authored a book which by some strange chance was entitled "Take It From Me" and we auto-graphed, one Sat. afternoon, quite a hunk of them for R. H. W.'s customers. That was in the "old" store. Well, a few yrs. later we passed through the same premises and thought we were in the wrong place. The store was brighter than California sunshine, the furnishings were blonde and the aisles so spacious you could drive a 10-ton truck through them and not even scratch a showcase. Look, we've been in the humor business for 25 yrs. and have churned out many a gag about the Christmas shopping crush. But those R. H. White's broad aisles made ye olde time humorist feel like a sucker. Ladies, come Christmas shopping and all, and you won't be bumped like a college fullback in that store ... Thoughts while shaving: 1. We bought our first Christmas gift for our first sweetheart in R. H. White's, in either 1907 or 1908. It was a silver plated purse (very snappy in that day) for $3. And maybe 3 bucks didn't bump our budget in that day, too ... 2. Well these days we walk along Wash. st. and such is the accuracy of the clock on White's facade that we can tell at a glance if our A.M. suburban train into the South Station was on time, 1, 2 or five minutes late ... 3. Oh, yes, and you have to be on the sidewalk opposite R. H. White's to note the total length of its majestic facade. The Wash. st. frontage is 290 feet. It could hardly be called a nook ... 4. And while we're waxing statistical, no wonder the store is brighter than daylight. It happens to contain only 30,000 ft. (that's more than 5½ miles) of fluorescent light tubes. (Now tossing away the blade.) ... Children, there IS a Santa Claus. Toyland on the 5th floor is loaded with toys ... Ever feel like riding on a cloud? Get onto one of White's silent escalators (they'll take you to the third floor) and try to tell the diff ... White's, by the way, installed (oh, woe back) the first escalator in the U. S.—and the first tube cash system, too ... Has anyone heard that furniture is hard to buy these days? He hasn't seen R. H. W.'s 4th floor. It's about as snug as the Boston Garden and split up into such magnitudinous fractions as "Modern Charm," "Suburban Modern," "Modern Grace," "Treasures in Maple" and "Colonial Creations." ANSWERS TO TODAY'S QUIZ: No. 1. R. H. White, a fur trapper and hunter who sold his skins from door to door, opened the original drygoods store in the basement of the old American House, the leading hotel of its time in Boston, in 1858 ... No. 2. "White Christmas" is not only a haunting, captivating tune by Irving Berlin, but it's a Yuletide shopping slogan this season, too ... No. 3. "Size magic" is simply having a section of a counter devoted to YOUR size of hosiery, gloves, sweaters, dresses, underwear, children's apparel, etc., as at White's. You'd be surprised how much time it saves ... One of the most densely populated blocks in all Boston is that occupied by the White store. Night and day, day and night, it shelters 212 mannequins. That's a lot of femmes—and all good-looking! (Did you ever see a homely mannequin?) ... On the graceful "Balcony for Youth" as it's called is purveyed everything in the apparel line from infants' to 'teen-agers' whatever-you-call-'ems ... Gold darn, if we weren't a working man, we could spend a full day in White's phonograph record dept. where you can hear (and buy) a discful of anything from Sibelius to Sinatra ... And just so Old Helpful can get in his final wedge, could we tell you there are only 26 shopping days before Christmas?

2 Cities Engage In War Bond Tilt

Placing patriotic emphasis on their age-old rivalry, the cities of Lowell and Lawrence were in a race today to reach a goal of $500,000 in war bond sales.

Accepting a challenge from police and firemen of Lawrence, Lowell's public servants were busy canvassing their fellow citizens in a drive to over-subscribe the quota.

The bond selling duel featured the Sixth War Loan drive in Massachusetts as volunteer salesmen in all of the state's communities redoubled their efforts to put the campaign over the top.

Highlighting the Lowell-Lawrence competition, the USS Jap Trap, a facsimile of an LST vessel, scheduled a visit in Lowell for Tuesday. The following day it will call at Lawrence.

After a holiday layoff, the all-services musical revue, "Anchors Aweigh of 1944," resumes its Bay State tour tonight in New Bedford.

George Murphy, M-G-M film star who is donating his services to the War Loan Drive, continues his personal appearances at war plants in Worcester.

Wodehouse Case Up in Commons

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP)—The P. G. Wodehouse case may be aired in Commons.

Several members of Parliament are preparing questions in an effort to get the government to clarify the position of the 63-year-old British novelist, who was detained by the French.

Reports from Paris, the London Daily Mail said, had "given the whole affair an unnecessary atmosphere of mystery."

The newspaper raised these questions: "What was the object of the arrest?" . . . "If the British government was not consulted in advance, why was a British citizen arrested by the French?"

In Paris, the police judiciary announced Wodehouse had been released after spending three nights in a police station, but it was disclosed later he was still detained.

It was understood the authorities had agreed not to press charges that Wodehouse had aided the Germans by broadcasts from Germany in 1941.

B29s Stir British

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP)—London papers printed news of the B-29 raid on Tokyo across their front pages today.

Boy Loses Fight to Live For Early Christmas Fete

ENERGY, Ill., Nov. 24 (INS)—Eugene Bridges didn't have his Christmas party on Thanksgiving Day after all. The 8-year-old Energy boy died yesterday morning, a victim of incurable leukemia.

Doctors had expressed doubt Eugene could live to see Christmas, and the citizens of Energy had vowed that fate would not cheat him of that pleasure. The Baptist and Methodist churches of the town took up collections to provide a special party Thanksgiving Day with turkey and all the fixings.

But instead of a crowd of well-wishers, visitors at the Bridges' home called to express their sympathy to the boy's widowed mother, Mrs. Effie Bridges.

A group of Eugene's schoolmates brought him some toys, but the boy was unconscious. He died without recovering consciousness.

Raid

flights are known to have included 100 planes.

The airmen were briefed to avoid the Imperial Palace, in the capital's heart, and shrines and temples.

They departed from here well aware that the raid would not be a surprise to the Japanese, long forewarned by the incessant flights and practice B-29 bombing missions against Truk and the Bonin Islands. The flight bore little resemblance to the first thrust of 16 medium bombers, launched from a carrier, which hit Tokyo in 1942 under Lt. Col. (now Lt. Gen.) James Doolittle.

Its historic importance was underlined by Gen. Arnold's personal report to President Roosevelt.

"This operation," he said, "is in no sense a hit-and-run raid. It is a calculated extension of our air power . . . No part of the Japanese Empire is now out of our range, no war factory too remote to feel our bombs. The battle for Japan has been joined."

"The systematic demolition of Japan's war production, begun six months ago from China bases, henceforth will be carried out with decisive force, softening up the Japanese heart for the ultimate invasion by combined United Nations land, sea and air forces. This will not be accomplished in a short time. The battle is just beginning. But today we opened against Tokyo an attack which will be carried on relentlessly from the air until the day of land-sea invasion."

Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, deputy commander of the 20th Air Force under Arnold, said, "We must and will sustain and intensify our attacks for many months to come before complete victory will be in sight."

Army engineers built the Superfort bases in five months, a major Pacific war achievement. They started as soon as the islands were secured in July and constructed the large Isley Field on Saipan from where some of today's raiders left, as well as other fields on Tinian and Guam.

Use of bases in the Marianas solved a major logistic problem in operation of the B-29s. The islands are within far more practicable supply lines than the long hump flight from India which still services the 20th Air Force planes in China.

The airmen in today's attacks knew they would return after dark with little fuel, skirting their way home past Japanese-held islands in the Marianas and Bonins.

During five months' operations from China and India bases, the Superforts have hit targets at Yawata, Sasebo and Omura on Kyushu, in the Japanese homeland; Mukden, Anshan, Dairen, Laoyao, Loyang, Kaleng, Nan-king and Shanghai in occupied China; Bangkok, Thailand; Rangoon, Burma; Palembang, Singapore and Formosa.

Five Rescued in Dedham Fire

Five persons, including two children, were marooned on a porch roof and rescued by a neighbor today when fire swept the home of Francis R. Gaffney in Grandfield st., Dedham, with an estimated loss of $2500.

Gaffney, his wife, sister-in-law and the two Gaffney children were trapped on the second floor when fire broke out in the kitchen. They crawled to the porch roof and Allied Strand of Riverside dr.

'Lame Duck' Law Plea to Tobin

Mayor Tobin today was urged to obey the spirit of the "lame duck" law and refrain from making "midnight appointments" or salary "grabs" before his resignation to accept the governorship.

The suggestion was made in an open letter sent Tobin by the Boston Municipal Research Bureau which pointed out the "lame duck" law, making last minute appointments by the outgoing mayor void on Jan. 31, was not applicable to the present case where a mayor was resigning.

"Nevertheless, there is a heavy personal responsibility upon you to refrain from making appointments and salary increases in the final days of your administration," the bureau declared.

"You will recall that recent outgoing administrations were severely criticized for lame duck appointments and salary increases after election day. A total of 493 salary increases were awarded and some 300 last-minute transfers and appointments made at the close of the last four mayoral terms at a cost of more than $450,000 in payrolls."

The letter was signed by John J. Costello, acting secretary.

O'Donnell

home ground. This is our first strike. It won't be a knockout punch but the enemy will know what's in store for him."

Dale approved. He found it in keeping with his father's teachings and his background as a West Point athlete.

O'Donnell Senior was at Clark Field, near Manila, when the Japs struck on Dec. 7, 1941. He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for his work—with pitifully small forces then against Jap invasion attempts in the islands.

He stayed with his dwindling air force near the end of the struggle on Bataan, until the few remaining Flying Forts, which he flew then, were ordered to Australia.

Until he was ordered to Smoky Hill Army Air Base, Salina, Kan., early this year to help develop the 12-29 group which was to culminate its training in this first heavy bomber raid on the Japanese capital, "Rosy" O'Donnell passed the time at his other love—coaching. He was a coach again at West Point, a post he held after graduation in 1928.

O'Donnell was known while at the Point as a plucky youngster, handicapped by his slight size. Passed over at first in favor of sturdier young men, O'Donnell kept at it, kept coming out, and his quick, inventive mind triumphed at the position he was best fitted for—as brains of the team at quarterback.

British Ships Carried 865,000 U. S. Troops

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—British vessels, including the crack transatlantic liners Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth, converted into troop carriers, transported 865,000 American uniformed personnel to United Kingdom invasion bases in the 12 months ended July 31 this year.

The gigantic "Queens" carried 320,000 Americans on the east-bound passage to Britain at a rate of over 25,000 monthly.

Fuel Shortage Seen by OWI

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Office of War Information said that coal, oil and wood supplies for home heating will remain tight for several months.

Householders will have approximately 10 per cent less of preferred coal and coke than they would burn in normal times.

"In areas where alternative fuel can be obtained, consumers will be able to use these to supplement their supply of scarce fuels," OWI continued.

Labor Press Backs Military Training

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 24 (AP)—The executive board of the Eastern Labor Press Congress adopted a resolution supporting universal military training as a permanent peace time policy.

Operation of the Selective Service system "has led to the removal of racial, religious and sectional prejudices by bringing young men of all races and faiths together in a mighty demonstration of united purpose," the board's resolution said.

Cruel Gestapo Girls Torture Prisoners

(This is the third in a series of articles in which a young Polish-American girl, recently arrived in Detroit, describes her experiences in the most dreaded Nazi concentration camp for women, at Ravensbrück, Germany.)

By ANNA NIEZMANA
As Told to John Creery

(Written Exclusively for International News Service and Boston Evening American.)

DETROIT, Nov. 24 (INS)—Our guards at the Ravensbrück concentration camp were women members of the Gestapo. They wore trim gray uniforms, black-hooded gray uniforms, black-hooded caps and officers' high boots. They were armed with revolvers, and on their rounds of the camp were accompanied by hounds.

They were at least as cruel, if not more so, than the men of the Gestapo.

In general, they were a savage, sadist type, stocky and muscular. Most of them were young—from 17 to 19. They had been recruited chiefly from the slums.

One of the worst ordeals they put us through was that of being moved from one barracks to another.

We had to rise at 3:30 a. m. After our breakfast of coffee we had to fall in for appeal in front of the barracks.

For three hours we had to stand in rigid silence, without moving our talking.

The SS women would kick us with their boots, slap us or strike us with whips if they caught us shifting a foot or whispering to a neighbor in line.

At noon there was another hour of appeal. In the evening, two hours as a matter of routine. Sometimes, as punishment, there was as much as five hours.

We were not excused from appeal when it rained or snowed. We had to stand it for the full period of time.

The terrain was uneven. A woman unlucky enough to be standing in a low spot would be up to her ankles in water, but she dared not move.

Often, especially on hot days, some of the weaker ones would topple over—the old women and the little girls.

None of them, so far as I recall, ever came out of the hospital alive.

First History Tests Next Week

Thirteen cities including Boston next week will conduct elimination examinations in the William Randolph Hearst National American History Awards competition for $5850 national prizes in War Bonds.

The local awards offered by the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser amount to $1000 in War Bonds. In addition, a $100 set of American History books will be presented to the school whose pupil makes the best record in the test.

History students in the public and parochial high schools will compete for a place on the champion team of three to represent Boston in the History National Finals which will be held in Faneuil Hall Monday, Dec. 11, just 11 days following the elimination examinations to be held city-wide next Thursday.

The 20 questions and topics of an essay of not more than 250 words have been selected and approved by the local committee. They will comprise the basis of the Boston test.

The questions will be delivered in ample time for the high schools' examination. They will be in sealed envelopes and will not be opened until the examination hour in the various schools.

Each contestant will answer 20 questions on American history, and will also write a 250-word essay on one of four topics in American history. Papers from this examination will be graded by history teachers in the Boston schools and then sent to a final examining judge, an authority on American history.

The local prizes are as follows: First prize, $200 War Bond; second, $100; third, $75; fourth through sixth, $50 each; and seventh through 25th, $25 each, all in War Bonds.

J.W.V. Auxiliary to Fete Anne Nadelberg

Appreciation of the administration of Anne Nadelberg, state department president of Ladies Auxiliary, Jewish War Veterans will be expressed by members at a reception and dinner in Rio Casino, Sunday, Dec. 3.

Sponsoring the demonstration for their former post president is the Ladies' Auxiliary, Business and Professional Men's Post, J.W.V. Arranging the affair are Ida L. Goldberg, chairman, Rose Katz, Ida Halpern, Mildred Halpern, Manna Levine and Betty Quint.

TIMELY SUITS WILL ABSORB THE MERRY BEATING OF YOUR DAY TO DAY GYMNASICS

Bend — stoop — sit — stretch — twist — reach — kneel — that's the rhythmic beat of your everyday gyrations. They are the tag lines of a man of action. They're the mark of a human dynamo at work. It takes more than a fine piece of all wool fabric—it takes tailoring—1945 tailoring to absorb the shocks and the wear and tear of this constant strain. Timely balanced tailoring brings you a scientific proportioning of resilient handstitching and sturdy machine stitching to produce a suit that will keep its original good looks without over-reaching your price.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—Regarding my husband's government insurance, would like to know if I should receive a policy or some notification from Washington after he had changed beneficiary from his mother's name to mine. Could you give me further information?

A. R. T., Roxbury.

A—You will not receive any official notification from Washington to the effect you have been named beneficiary. When the soldier originally took out insurance, his mother, being the first beneficiary, received the insurance certificate. Your husband, changing beneficiary by naming you, voids the original, but no additional certificates are sent out.

Q—My son has been in the service for 15 months; he is my sole support. Am I entitled to $50 per month instead of $37?

A. M., Boston.

A—That is a matter you will have to take up with Office of Dependency and Benefits. It is possible to have amount increased to $50, provided you can produce evidence that you are entirely dependent on son. Suggest you contact Dependency Office, 4th floor, 80 Federal st., Boston.

Q—If a soldier requests discharge because of dependency reasons at home, and having served overseas, is he eligible for the $300?

P. W. N., Ft. Devens.

A—Yes.

Q—I was a member of the U. S. Naval Reserve, called to active duty Dec. 2, 1940, discharged May 20, 1941, due to medical reasons. Classified 1-C by local draft board. Would like to know if I am considered a veteran, entitled to GI Bill benefits and eligible for discharge button.

M. S., Peabody.

A—Yes you are considered veteran and entitled to GI Bill benefits, due to the fact you served more than 90 days following Sept. 16, 1940. Not eligible for mustering-out pay. Apply at Fargo Barracks, Summer st., South Boston, for discharge papers. Bring your discharge papers.

Questions submitted to Veterans' Friend, Record-American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass., will be answered in this daily column.

Germany's V-2 Weapon

—Here for the first time, is an artist's conception, based on authoritative analyses and reports of how the V-2 may be hurled from its portable platform, a tractable vehicle towed to the site by a powerful truck. In the drawing the adjustable launching ramp has been raised to a 45 degree angle which gives a maximum range. The electric firing equipment is housed within the armored flash shield. The platform rests on hydraulic jacks which absorb the recoil and water jets are used to cool the platform.

End the War VICTORIOUSLY
Make the Peace PERMANENTLY
Bring Our Boys Home PROMPTLY

SEE BOSTON

MAJOR-GENERAL FLEMING, the Federal Works Administration chief, has come back from Europe brimful of facts and figures.

The biggest building boom in history is about to start on the other side of the Atlantic, he says.

More than a million homes will be constructed in the London area alone.

Stalingrad, almost completely destroyed by the Germans, will rise from its ashes as the world's most beautiful city.

Even Paris, which escaped widespread damage in this war, is to get a new face and a healthier body.

At this point, General Fleming will have to pardon us if we show signs of yawning.

We do not mean to be rude to an American official appointed to serve Americans.

It is just that we are worn out trying to find out how an important executive can say so much about postwar projects in foreign lands and so little about essential things in his own country.

However, we promise General Fleming that we shall be all ears if he comes to Boston and gives our cow-pasture flying field and ox-cart harbor the benefit of his boundless optimism.

But if he takes our well-intended advice, he will not make the trip in one of the superplanes the Army and Navy are building.

The risk would be too great. Even the best pilots cannot park winged elephants on pinhead-sized airports.

Nor do we want the good general to come in one of the huge vessels built for the transportation of war weapons.

He might find himself marooned in the mud of our ancient harbor. And if he had the good luck to reach a pier, he would be seriously in danger of crashing through the worm-eaten timbers.

MORE TO DO

THE County Commissioners' and Sheriffs' Association of Massachusetts wants to avert mistrials and delays caused by the illnesses of regular jurors hearing capital cases. Wherefore the esteemed gentlemen are sponsoring legislation to permit the use of two alternate jurors.

The idea is good as far as it goes but it does not go far enough. Also needed is a law giving jurors the right to decide whether a convicted first degree murderer shall be executed or sent to prison for life.

The last session of the General Court almost passed such a statute, but its wishes were nullified by the artful meddling of persons whose knowledge of judicial affairs was too limited for the Commonwealth's good.

It would be worthwhile, too, for the County Commissioners and Sheriffs to say a kind word in behalf of lady jurors.

Women are serving with honor and distinction on the juries of a majority of the States. There is emphatically no reason to suspect that our Massachusetts women are inferior to their sisters elsewhere.

INSPIRING

COMPLACENT Americans (they still exist) who are hesitating to buy War Bonds to back up their country's defenders should read this:

"Our armed forces have returned to the Philippines with God's help. America is pledged to the liberation and restoration of this land. We at the fighting front have complete faith in you at home. The spirit of America has never failed us and we know you will supply needed money through the purchase and holding of War Bonds."

The author is Gen. Douglas MacArthur, as you may have guessed. Clip the inspiring statement and attach it to the War Bond you buy today.

—ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING.

THIS might make a nice fireplace motto for a film star couple. . . . A prospectus of the Nazi Training School for Fuehrers has been found by our advancing troops in Germany. In this prospectus, written by Principal Dr. Robert Ley, is stated among other things that: "Everyone will learn to fence, box, ride a horse and rule living animals with an iron will." Also: "Everyone will have to dive from a 30-foot board whether he can swim or not." I would like to see Hitler dive from a 30-foot board. Preferably into an empty swimming pool. As for that "ruling living animals with an iron will," it might be very interesting to see a Nazi Fuehrer trying to rule an army mule with an iron will.

ASIDES: Note it is stated all circus elephants are females. Also that the male elephant is too bad tempered and dangerous to be a circus performer. I am ready to wager a fine Havana cigar that Jumbo, the most famous of all circus elephants, was a male.

PLEASE NOTE: You don't have to be a West Pointer to achieve high rank in the U. S. Army. You don't even have to be a graduate of Virginia Military Institute. Brig. Gen. Huebner of the First Division enlisted in 1910 and advanced in rank as follows: Private, corporal, sergeant, first lieutenant, captain, lieutenant colonel, colonel, brigadier general.

SIDELIGHTS: A Chicagoan says he has bought a ouija board and is going to use it to try to pick winners at the race-track. Sounds like an interesting experiment. "Who is the ouija board named after?" he asks. The name is a combination of the French "oui" and the German "ja," both meaning "yes." . . . That gag about the bride's first biscuits is still being pulled. I remember the first biscuits my bride made. They were good. I ate nine of them. . . . Am asked what is my favorite radio program. Haven't any particular favorite. But I tune in every night on a program of Bing Crosby records. I still think "Old Groaner" is the best of all the singers of popular songs.

MONEY: Husbands should not say to their loving wives: "Be careful how you spend my money." They should say: "Be careful how you spend our money." So states a feminine expert on matrimonial etiquette. Sounds all right. But suppose the wife is a career woman like Greer Garson, Madame Perkins or one of the other celebrities and has her own pay check? Should she refer to said check as "my money" or "our money"? Usually when a working wife buys anything with money she has earned she says: "I bought this with my own money." Perhaps the aforementioned feminine expert on matrimonial etiquette could give some of her own sex a little advice on this "whose money is it?" matter. Too many wives follow the policy toward their husbands of: "What's yours is half mine, and what's mine is all mine."

Greer Garson

WASHING DISHES: Poorly washed dishes in restaurants are spreading disease. So states John Andrews of the U. S. Public Health Service. He also says this type of disease-spreading is increasing daily. Mr. Andrews says dishes should be washed in water heated to a temperature of from 110 to 120 degrees Fahrenheit. After the washing they should be dunked in water heated to 170 degrees Fahrenheit. Call this to the attention of the manager of your favorite restaurant or fountain lunch. Then get a thermometer and check on him the next day.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q. Name the six best dramatic crises in the history of the American stage? A—Query covers too much ground for me. All I can say is that the best dramatic crises of the past 25 years are: Percy Hammond, Alexander Woolcott and George Jean Nathan. Q—What advantage has a left-handed first baseman over a right handed? A—None at all. Right-handed first basemen are usually steeper fielders than the left handers. Besides, when a southpaw initial sacker throws the ball to other infielders it often has a curve on it and is hard to field quickly.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—From the very beginning, all arguments in favor of the Federal income tax have emphasized its "democratic" character. All opposition to the tax itself, to the more and more confiscatory revenue acts, and to their oppressive administration by the Treasury, has been hooted down without reasonable hearing.

In the sense that democracy means the rule of the majority or a manipulated minority without regard for the rights of others, the tax is truly democratic.

Its oppressive character is manifest in the burdensome weight of this tax that is carried by the few million individuals who, in normal times, pay it all, and again in the load carried by a few populous and wealthy States for the benefit of the many.

The propaganda for democracy has been strident and persistent in the years of the Roosevelt rule and apparently most of our people think democracy means freedom and think that is what Mrs. Roosevelt has in mind when she harps on the word.

Within the last year, the editor of an important Southern paper, Democratic, of course, said democracy meant the same thing as the Republican system and indicated that he would like to end discussion of possible differences.

The truth is, however, that the genuine American party Democrats, as distinguished from those who have European inclinations, are becoming embarrassed by the newer implications of democracy. They do not like this thing but not all of them are ready, just yet, to abandon their party to the European Democrats, whose ideology Mrs. Roosevelt constantly preaches.

I HAVE POINTED OUT some peculiarities of the income tax which are hostile to the integrity of the family as a unit and markedly partial to "society" and "the community."

In this connection it begins to dawn that this version of democracy is unfriendly to the religious teachings of those of us who are religious at all BECAUSE ALL OF US HAVE SUCH FEELINGS PUT FAMILY FIRST.

Russia and Germany put the state ahead and this is the spirit of these discriminations against the family in the income tax.

That, too, would be good democracy according to the new version whose extreme advocates have recently gone so far as to propose that not only young men but girls should be drafted for a year of "national service" not alone for the value of the service itself but for advancement of democracy among us through compulsory association of "all the different groups" as Mrs. Roosevelt puts it.

Why would the advocates of democracy want to discredit the family? I think their reasons are suggested by their conduct and preaching. They are very MATERIALISTIC and, although one hears much talk of "humanity" from them THERE IS SELDOM ANY MENTION OF GOD.

They would not think of calling this war a fight for Christian principles, although these would constitute an excellent formula for the peace and well-being of mankind. Our friends, the Russians, would think it strange but we can get together on democracy because democracy eventually devours itself and can tolerate even slavery.

IT HAS BEEN SAID that the Russians have edged over toward the right in the last few years which may be true or false, but there is no doubt that we, on our part, have moved far to the left seeking a common ground with them.

So far, under the democratic concept, we have established in the income tax the principle that man's obligation to his own family is inferior to his obligation to society.

Before he may provide for his own dependents he MUST CONTRIBUTE to the support of others and he may EVEN GIVE TO A COMMUNIST SCHOOL as deductible contribution MUCH MORE than he may give HIS OWN WIFE, free of the gift tax, in the same year, even though the wife, by her work, self-denial and inspiration may have had a great share in the earning of the money.

Hollywood Today

By Dorothy Manners

Substituting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24—John C. Wilson, producer of "Bloomer Girl," gets out here next week to listen to the hot movie bids for his Broadway hit. There's no doubt the tinkle of cash will be loud, particularly from 20th Century-Fox, where it would come in handy for Betty Grable, and from Universal, where it would very nicely serve the talents of Deanna Durbin.

But Nat Goldstone, who co-produced with Wilson, has a discouraging note to add. He says that he and Wilson lean heavily toward producing "Bloomer Girl" themselves, using the Broadway cast as it now stands. This is the third brace of New York producers to threaten to sponsor the movie version of their hits—counting "Anna Lucasta" and "Oklahoma." Or are they just being smart to drive up the Hollywood price?

WHAT DO YOU bet that Clark Gable isn't before the camera by January 1 in "Lucky Baldwin"? And there's a very good chance that Spencer Tracy will do the other top role. His name is pencilled into the script along with Clark's. And speaking of that script, "Lucky Baldwin" runs 400 pages of screenplay, making it the longest movie on paper since "Gone With the Wind." And all the time I was hoping movies would get shorter. But with Gable in every scene—who's kicking?

DOUG WHITNEY, Ben Hecht's radio agent, was telling Hecht that he had a peach of an idea for a murder story—and Hecht was so impressed he asked to collaborate. Now Buddy De Sylva is interested in the yarn for Alan Ladd. It goes like this: The main character commits a couple of murders by design but accidentally kills a minister with whom he changes clothes. Once in clerical garb he gets religion, performing many good deeds before the law catches up with him. Temporary title is "Beyond Good and Evil" and it is almost tailor-made for Ladd.

IT WAS family day in the stars' homes yesterday except for a few like Tallulah Bankhead, who broke the wishbone aboard the Chief, heading for New York, and Lon McAllister, who handled his drumstick somewhere in Denver with the "Vinged Victory" group. Many service men were invited to Hollywood homes, too. Lynn Bari played hostess to 14 and Bill Bendix had an even baker's dozen. Harry James and Betty Grable had Betty's mother, father and brother-in-law along with two boys from Ft. Ord. Ann Baxter flew to San Francisco for Thanksgiving dinner with her family. Alice Faye had a hard time talking three-year-old Alice Jr. into eating one of their own farm grown turkeys. The junior Miss Harris didn't want to eat "a friend of hers."

WHAT HAPPENED to the two-year-old hostess at a birthday party in Beverly Hills the other day shouldn't happen to a pup. It all started when little "Ricky" Terry (pride and joy of June Preisser) arrived with a present, presented it to his juvenile hostess, and then demanded it back when he started to go home. His gift was returned and the idea caught on like wildfire with every ice cream-and-cake-eater in the nursery demanding back his or her gift! The waits were so loud that not only was the hostess left with nary a single present—but somebody lifted her kiddie kar while the raid was on!

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: Hear Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz have been reconciled for a week but fear to admit it until they are sure. It's for keeps and they won't get tempestuous again; speaking of reconciliations, Elnor Krupa, Gene's ex, is in Chicago to remarry him. Krupa had been calling her several times a week and he finally sent for her to retie the knot; the fiction editor of "Good Housekeeping," Max Wilkinson, is at the Beverly Hills Hotel for 10 days; Walter Pidgeon has a stand-in named Robert Young who looks like Errol Flynn; Bette Davis is still in Columbus, Georgia—and it's still Corporal Riley; it's just a matter of days before Sam Wood signs with a major company as an independent producer-director—same deal as Leo McCarey's with RKO; when Father Flanagan and the "Boystown" football team arrive there for the Loyola game, they will be the guests of Spencer Tracy; knew Frank Sinatra didn't mean those harsh words about Hollywood. He'll be back here soon after the first of the year; Dick Haymes' agent, Bill Burton, marries Hope McKenzie December 6 and Dick will be best man; too bad Hona Massey had to cancel her eight-day bond selling tour. Doctor's orders. She has a severe chest cold; the daughter of Jack Kirkland and Nancy Carroll, Pat Kirkland, is here from New York to test for "Kiss and Tell." She's been playing the road company and in Chicago; Jack Gross' contract at RKO was lifted two months before due; Louis Kaufman, who wowed them at the Canteen, leaves on a concert tour. That's all today.

 NEW YORK, Nov. 24—No one has mentioned the double dilemma of the two Eddie Davises, both of whom are importantly connected with "Glad to See You," now playing in the City of Brotherly Love.

Of course you've read that Eddie Davis, the Leon & Eddie's comic, is out of his starring role in the musical as the result of a fractured collar-bone suffered in an automobile accident. Not generally known, however, is the fact that the other Eddie Davis, who wrote the show, is seriously ill with pneumonia in a Philadelphia hospital.

Even if it seems, he becomes classic more than moderately a antiquated.

The expressions used by the heroine of the same name in "Forever Amber" are being taken up in a big way by members of the so-called sophisticated set. All the chic chicks who wouldn't dream of being caught saying "Sick your old man," "Go roll a hoop" or "23 skidoo" are dashing around these nights beligerently bellowing "A pox on you!" which must have been strictly off the cob in Amber's era.

DOROTHY ARNOLD is telling her close friends that she definitely will not effect a reconciliation with Joe DiMaggio, despite reports to the contrary. . . . A Hollywoodite's wife runs a millinery shop on the coast. Because of the help shortage, he models the hats! . . . Crooner Jerry Wayne and Conover cutie Dulcet Tone are making beautiful music. . . . Bill Farnsworth, the famous sportswriter, is very ill. . . . If she marries a cub reporter it will be just like the movies. I'm thinking of the copy girl at the A. P. who isn't telling a soul there that her father is the editor of an important daily.

SHIRLEY EDER, whose papa is the judge, may enter politics as soon as she passes the 25-year-old age minimum for Congress. . . . The world's greatest exhibitions of minks, platinas, stone martens and sables are not in the fur district—they occur every Sunday night at the copy girl at the A. P. who isn't telling a soul there that her father is the editor of an important daily. . . . Russell Swann, the magician, is wearing shoes with his initials on the toes. . . . Bruce Cabot, who used to be something of a cut-up, is the best behaved boy in the studios since his Army career. . . . Choo Choo Johnson's latest victim is Joe Galkin, Tommy Tucker's manager. . . . Katina Paxinou and her actor husband, Alexis Minotis, have received a cable from the Greek National Theater in Athens (formerly the Greek Royal Theater) asking them to return to Greece and re-establish the theater there. However, they hope "Sophie Halcenck, American," will keep them over here for a while.

PITY THE SAD plight of the press agent who was christened Michael O'Shea at birth and who has suffered in silence since actor Michael O'Shea achieved screen prominence. Just a few weeks ago the two met for the first time and had quite a set-to over the moniker. The thespian affected the attitude that the p. a. was an impostor trading on his cinema celebrity, and went so far as to accuse the local Mr. O'Shea of not being Irish. The p. a. is irate, and with considerable justification, since the acting O'Shea was named Eddie O'Shea until the start of his movie career. . . . The reconciliation of the Dick Forans (Carole Gallagher) didn't take. She'll sue again, charging cruelty.

BOB HUTTON and his wife, Natalie Thompson, are doing the night spots again, leading their set to believe they may not get together with the divorce plans. . . . Arturo DeCordova, back from Mexico, is romancing with Isabella.

Boston After Dark

BOSTON'S FAMOUS "LADY IN RED" invaded New York for the final week of the Metropolitan racing season. . . . But with adverse results. . . . She bet $5000 twice on favorites to show and $3000 once. . . . The three nags ran out of the money. . . . Notwithstanding their New York setback, the "Lady in Red" and her trusting and devoted husband, (for whom she bets), made more than $40,000 net in the New England season. . . . (Money, were talking about.)

MIKE TODD'S "STAR AND GARTER," with Lois Andrews in the Gypsy Rose Lee role, was shelled by the Chicago critics. . . . In the Windy Burg for a 10-week stay, the show sold out from the very beginning. . . . Dist-Atty Bill Foley is debating whether to run for Mayor in the special election.

JOHN GUNTHER, the author-commentator, is in Boston gathering material for the New England section of "Inside America." His newest "Inside someplace" . . . One of the most-traveled Americans of today offers a gratuitous bit of praise for Boston's taxi-drivers. . . . Our cab-jockeys, he says, are the best in the land. . . . Not only are they honest and not only do they have change for bills of large denominations, they are courteous and have the amazing nicety of conduct to open doors for patrons, both male and female.

LOVELY GLORIA HOWEY, wife of the editor, will confirm this well-traveled gentleman's valedictory on our hackies. . . . On the way with her husband to her Beacon street apartment from Johnny Costello's Music Box, Mrs. Howey's watch became detached. . . . She missed it a moment after alighting from the cab. . . . Gloria's phone was ringing as she entered her home. . . . The cab-driver was on the wife. . . . "Did you miss anything?" he inquired (and not coyly). . . . "Yes, I lost my watch," was the reply. . . . The cab driver asked for a description. . . . (It was an ornate and unique little piece with rubies and diamonds). . . . "Okay," the hackney guy chuckled. "I've got it. But I've been up all night, and if it's all right with you I'll bring it in this afternoon."

AND, AS PROMISED, the hackie appeared at Mr. Howey's office in the afternoon. . . . The grateful Mr. H. offered him a $20 bill at once, and asked the cabbie to wait a minute until he visited with the cashier to augment his current capital. . . . But the driver protested. . . . "This is enough," he said. "I won't take any more. It was a pleasure."

(Does somebody have a contact with Ripley?)

BOSTON HOTELS ARE BEING criticized for a lack of Scotch in their bars, cigarettes in their stands, butter on their tables (except at breakfast). . . . The hotels, however, have an "out" . . . They are in the business of catering to resident guests. . . . Resident guests enjoying room service are given the works, including Scotch, cigarettes and butter. . . . Or so the hotel men say. . . . New York hostels still maintain that 15 or 20 cents "bread and butter charge" in spite of a thorough lack of butter, regardless of a patron's neutrality on the subject of bread. . . . Girls: George Murphy will be in town this week-end. . . . Bobbysockers: Frankie (The Voice) Sinatra is not "staying over" at a Boston hotel. . . . After his concert, he will be straight through to New York. . . . Ruby Foo's charm as a hostess has been inherited, obviously, by her girl-child, Doris—now presiding at The Den.

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24—Lucille Ball and Desi Arnez are together again for retakes. . . . Preston Sturges is interested in buying "Harvey" and making it into a movie. . . . They are trying to get Jerome Kern to write the score for the film version of "Rip Van Winkle" . . . Jeanne Crain and Paul Brooks, who looks like Errol Flynn, are really vooming. . . . The next Masie will be a whodunit titled "Murder, Masse, Murder" . . . Clifford Odets got a royal flush at the meeting of the Hollywood Club last week, and a bunch of good reviews couldn't have gotten him more excited. . . . Henry Blanke is considering offers from Hal Wallis and David Selznick. . . . Memo to Earl Wilson: Judy Garland will be in Club last week, and the opening of "Meet Me in St. Louis," so get her to sing her parody of "Ain't Misbehavin'" called "Ain't Miss De Haven," which is really something. . . . Hugo Friedhofer, the musical arranger, claims that any man who gets married a second time doesn't deserve to lose his first wife.

Adele Jergens

LANA TURNER would like to play in a picture with Turhan Bey. . . . The trademark of Bing Crosby's new production company will be a porkpie hat and pipe. . . . Gregory Peck isn't why the stenographers wander to "The Valley of Decision" set. It's the handsome Director, Tay Garnett. . . . Ted Straeter, the Mocambo orchestra leader, and Jane Bell are for each other. . . . Adele Jergens wears fewer clothes as the Princess in "A Thousand and One Nights" than she did as the stripteaser in "Together Again." According to the Hays Office, it's okay if a Princess does it.

GREER GARSON will be a participant in the Hollywood Writers' Mobilization Town Forum premiere of "Tomorrow the World" . . . Bonnie Barmes will probably play the role of the woman pirate in "Spanish Main."

Washington Scene

Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc.

LUBBOCK, Tex., Nov. 24—Texans are the finest people in the world, and I won't hear a word to the contrary—not until I get beyond the borders of this state. But they have one baffling peculiarity.

They don't seem happy unless they get me on a horse.

I CANNOT understand this tendency because, I never remain on the steed long enough to make it worth while. But they do not seem to mind. They laugh like the great-hearted fellows they are every time I fall off. They do not even show rancor when I land on their growing things, such as cactus.

ON THIS Texas-in-the-war tour of newspapermen I get invited to mount nags in practically every place we visit. On second thought, I do not believe "invited" is the right word. Our hosts insist on it.

I keep telling them I do not wish to put them and the horses to any trouble but, with the true hospitality of the Southwest, they always assure me it is no trouble at all.

In fact, I have been able to find only two in all Texas who seem to find it any bother—me and the horse.

I SUPPOSE, in a way, it is all the fault of me and my big, blabbing mouth. When I came down here I confided that Texas reminded me a lot of the place I used to live, Moosejaw, Saskatchewan.

I meant Texas is big, with wide, flat prairies. The weather is somewhat different because, up in Moosejaw, we only had two seasons—winter and a fair week. Actually, I was only trying to make conversation.

But they seemed to get the idea that I was practically an old cow hand, or rider of the purple sage. I did not bother to correct this impression at the time because we were in Houston and there wasn't there a horse to be seen in the whole lotto lobby.

But it wasn't long before we got to where there were horses. Whereupon Mr. Bill Mason, the big General Tire and Rubber Co. man from Akron, O., said:

"I have a wonderful surprise for you. It was a little hard to swing but I swung it. I have arranged for you to make the next leg of the trip on horseback."

I told Mr. Mason that was terribly thoughtful of him but that I wouldn't be able to do it because I had neglected to bring along my leather chaps and boots.

"I can't understand how I forgot them," I said. "I hardly ever go anywhere without at least my Mexican saddle and spurs."

"That is all right," said Mr. Mason. "I have also arranged for the loan of chaps and spurs. What do you think about that?" "I think you are a hound," I said. "I may as well admit I have only been on a horse once before in my life and that was to have my pitcher took. Furthermore, six guys out of camera range were holding the beast by the tail."

"Well," replied Mr. Mason, "you've felt them that I won't. But I think you are going to have trouble. The news that you are practically the Lone Ranger has gone on ahead. I am sure you will be invited to mount many a gallant Mustang."

THE UPSHOT was that I fell off horses in Temple, Austin, Corpus Christi, Freeport, San Jacinto, Tyler, Athens, Longview, Abilene—and across most of the Panhandle, which is a region of Texas where the ground is very hard on account of little rainfall.

By the time we got up here to Lubbock, which is a big cotton center, I was known on the tour as the "Bouncing Boy."

Nevertheless, they forced me onto another nag, explaining that they had a very quick photographer who could get a picture before I fell off. This turned out to be true and also quite a coincidence because the photographer was Sgt. Herb McCarty, Jr., whose father is a veteran press photog in New York and a friend.

"Get this over with quick," I told young Herb, "or, when I see him, I will punch your old nose in the nose. You are a little too big yourself."

What I wish to say is that I stayed on that horse long enough for Sergeant McCarty to pull a flash. And the Army has the picture to prove it.

IN CASE you want to know how the Army is mixed in this thing, it has been our host a lot of the way, moving us around in transport planes. I wish to say this: Whatever people say about inefficiency in matters governmental, it certainly does not extend to the Army.

By George Dixon

INCIDENTALLY, we saw the glider training at Lubbock, as guests of Brig. Gen. Earl Deford. It was the first time I had ever witnessed that ticklish operation—the picking up of a grounded glider by a plane flying at high speed.

They have two uprights that look like football goal posts with a cross bar of tough nylon rope. This rope in turn is connected with another nylon rope that extends to the glider. The plane comes zooming down, levels off about five feet from the ground, and then suddenly shoots upward again just as it reaches the contraption. A trailing hook grabs the cross bar rope and the trick is done.

It sounds fairly simple, but you ought to see it. Gen. Deford told me there are not many pilots qualified for this work. It is comparatively new stuff anyway, this retrieving of grounded gliders. Although they cost $17,000 to build, they used to be considered expendable.

All I wish to say is I would rather not be in either the pickup plane or the glider.

French Top U. S. In Television

By THURSTON MacAULEY
PARIS, Nov. 24 (INS)—France has developed a television program reported as far ahead of developments in the United States

Although there are only some 2000 persons in the Paris area who now have television receiving sets, French technicians are planning to start programs in January or February. The program is to be known as "Voici Paris" (here is Paris).

One reason why French technicians were able to make such strides lies in the fact the Germans used their television center in Paris, from early 1943 up to last August.

During that time expert French workers were retained by the Germans and they made the most of their experience to absorb the knowledge of the Nazi technicians.

All From Crumbs

By MARTHA LEE
BREAD CRUMBS, soft, dry or toasted, offer the cook innumerable ways to make use of leftover bread. For stuffings, of course, soft crumbs are best. But dry crumbs are the choice for coating croquettes, cutlets, or fried vegetables. Bread crumbs may be used in puddings or dried and made into dry crumbs. Put scraps of bread in a slow oven. When thoroughly dry, roll out on a hard board with the rolling pin, or grind in a food chopper. Tie a paper bag over the opening of the chopper where the crumbs come out to keep them from flying.

Dry crumbs are especially useful in helping to stretch such foods as meat, fish, and cheese, and in making crumb cakes, pastry and cookies. They should be stored in a dry, sterilized, covered jar, protected from moisture and will then keep for several weeks.

ROYAL BREAD PUDDING

2 cups milk 3 tbsp. sugar
 1/2 tsp. salt 2 eggs, separated
 1/2 tsp. vanilla extract
 2 cups bread cubes 1/4 cup jam
 Heat milk. Add sugar and salt. Cool to lukewarm and add beaten egg yolks and vanilla extract. Put bread cubes into greased casserole and add milk mixture. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 30 minutes. Remove from oven. Spread jam over top of pudding. Cover with meringue. Return to oven and bake 20 to 25 minutes, or until meringue is lightly browned. Serve hot or cold. Makes 6 servings.

MERINGUE

2 egg whites 4 tbsp. sugar
 1/4 tsp. salt
 1/2 tsp. vanilla extract
 Beat egg whites and salt until stiff but not dry. Add sugar gradually, beating after each addition. Fold in vanilla extract.

SCALLOPED OYSTERS AND CELERY

1-1/2 cup butter
 1 1/2 cups dry bread crumbs
 1 dozen oysters
 1/2 cups finely cut celery
 1 tbsp. minced parsley
 Salt and pepper
 1/2 cup oyster liquor
 1/2 cup milk
 Melt butter, add crumbs and stir until well blended. Butter baking dish and cover bottom with buttered crumbs. Add layer of oysters and half the celery, parsley, salt and pepper. Cover with more crumbs. Repeat, covering the top with crumbs. Combine oyster liquor with milk and pour over contents of baking dish. Bake, covered, in a moderate oven, 375 deg. F., 30 to 35 minutes.

BANANA CREAM PIE

3 bananas
 Baked bread crumb crust
 2 cups milk Salt
 1/2 cup sugar 3 egg yolks
 1 tsp. vanilla
 Peel bananas and slice them into bread crumb crust. Scald milk and add salt, sugar and slightly beaten egg yolks. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture begins to thicken. Remove from fire and add vanilla. Pour over sliced bananas. Top with meringue made of 3 egg whites, 3 tbsps. sugar, and 1 tsp. vanilla. Beat the egg whites until they stand in peaks. Add sugar, a tbsps. at a time, continue beating, add vanilla. Spread over pie and bake in slow oven, 325 deg. F., until golden brown. For a more creamy meringue, use 6 tbsps. powdered sugar instead of the granulated sugar.

BREAD CRUMB CRUST

1/2 cup butter or margarine
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
 Soften butter or margarine and rub into sugar and crumbs, mixing thoroughly. Pat the mixture firmly against the bottom and sides of a well buttered 8-inch pie pan. Bake in hot oven, 400 deg. F., 15 minutes.

Fashion

WHEN IT COMES to a new coiffure for a holiday party ... Bettina Bolegard, famous New York model, uses her jewelry and her imagination. A Dache net holds her back upswept hair smooth and sleek while a false braid, worn coronet fashion, is covered with a second Dache net ... and entwined with pearls for a touch of elegance. It is simple beauty tricks like these that make the Big City lovelies the nation's choice for smart pulchritude.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Thursday—I had a few busy hours in New York city yesterday morning, doing the things I had not been able to do the day before because I had spent a morning on the train peacefully reading "The First Round," by Joseph Gaer.

The book is smart spending a few hours on, and will give you a clear picture of the CIO Political Action Committee. My time on the train was not completely uninterrupted, however. A young man who had worked with our son Elliott years ago, and who in fact had his start in radio work with him in Texas, came to my compartment to tell me he is now working in Chicago.

Then two sailor boys wandered in to talk, and later three soldiers, discharged after going through the campaigns in Africa, Sicily and Italy, chatted on many subjects. They were going back to the world of civilians, but I didn't find in any of them a great zest for the opportunities which lie ahead.

PERHAPS IN OUR COMMUNITIES we ought to make a little more fuss about the men coming back from the wars. They should have a pride in their accomplishments, a feeling that the work here at home needs them very much, and, above everything else, that their wishes for their country in the future are going to count with the people.

Having promised long ago to be a speaker and join in a radio program at the dinner given by Theta Sigma Phi to the South American women journalists on Wednesday in Washington, I took the train back, fulfilled my promise, and took the midnight for New York city, in order to join some of my family for Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving Day was a quiet one, with only a small group of us elders around. I imagine we are doing what many other people in this country are doing—working at our usual jobs, except for a brief interlude in the evening.

THERE IS ONE THING I have not been able to do in New York because of my very brief time there, and which I genuinely regret having missed. On the 19th, at the American British Art Center, 44 West 56th st., Maxim Kopf opened his exhibition of paintings. Although the exhibition runs until Dec. 2, I shall, unfortunately, not be back until after that date.

Walking With a Friend

When you are walking with a friend and you meet someone who stops to speak to your friend, walk slowly on while they hold their (brief, I hope) conversation. Don't "hang back" awkwardly, as if you were waiting for an introduction. If the third person is invited to join you and your friend, or if there is any reason for an introduction, they can overtake you and the introduction can be made. But in the meantime you won't have given the impression that you expected the introduction. —MRS. BECKMAN.

Scent Works Witchery

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

THROUGHOUT THE AGES women have sought for allure. They have experimented with cosmetics, with herbs, with love potions and charms ... and with fragrance. Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt, tinted the palms of her hands with henna ... and blackened her lashes with kohl, the first-mascara. Elizabeth of England ... beloved as Good Queen Bess ... tried to fascinate her courtiers with her thousand and one jewel-studded dresses. Marie Antoinette ... ill-fated queen ... bathed in milk and crushed strawberries to maintain her fabulous purity of skin.

In the Russias, queens and princesses vied with each other in their efforts to gain power, prestige and romance. Empress Alexandra keyed her personality to virgin white ... was known for her lace frocks ... her ermine wraps and her long ropes of pearls. Catherine ... symbol of power though she was ... sought ever to be a more intriguing woman. She wrapped her queenly figure in satins and silks ... and started a search for a new scent ... one that would make her more fascinating.

Many were the scents that were created to the order of this great empress ... but of them all ... one alone was destined to stir the pulse of kings. Love charm and fragrance ... its witchery was such that the creator was banished from court (for fear he'd duplicate the scent for others) ... and Catherine claimed the fragrance for her own personal use. Without the royal consent ... no one in all the world could wear that scent.

The day of such royal prerogatives has passed ... but not the scent itself. Exclusive and intriguing, the scent works the same witchery today for the most democratic beauties in the world ... the American women. It brings a special heritage of beauty to each personality. A fragrance from the past for your present ... it hints of power and love.

Choose it for your own if you ... like Catherine the Great, Empress of all the Russias ... wish to be a more intriguing woman. It may be matched with companion toiletries ... dusting powder, bath oil, "lait" ... a complexion milk ... and even soap. All are moderately priced.

For the name of this stirring scent, phone the Beauty Department, LIBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Back to Victorian Age

By BETTINA BEDWELL

DRESSES slated to be worn by girls to holiday dances are apt to have a demure look about them which reminds you of "Little Women" and other Victorian Age romances.

Most of these dresses are made of stiff fabrics like taffeta and faille, or they come in unrationed net, tulle or lace. They all have very full skirts, which are long and very nice to look at whirling around a dancing lady. Some have low-cut waists and short, or no sleeves. Others have real basque waists, with long sleeves. It is very fashionable to wear a small shawl of the dress material around the shoulders.

Such a model is sketched. It comes from Emmet Joyce, one of our brilliant designing lights, who made it for Samuel Kass. The material is taffeta, and the colors are rose, blue and green set in stripes. The basque waist has a high daytime top and long sleeves. The tiny matching shawl is beaded, and so are some of the stripes in the skirt.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

YOUR CHILD'S MANNERS—A child's manners in public merely reflect his home manners. The youngster who is accustomed to a bib won't object to the napkin tucked under his chin at a restaurant meal. The little girl who always has a napkin at home will know how to use a napkin when in public.

Beauty

THE AMPLE DISPLAY of shapely gams may be an intriguing pose ... but if you wish to be a bit of intriguing femininity ... destined to stir the pulse of your kingly "Big Hunk of Man" ... make up with a love-charm fragrance that will help you to emerge a more fascinating female. Warner star Faye Emerson is a nice eye-filler.

Bridge Etiquette

If several of your friends are excellent bridge players ... or think they are, and take their bridge seriously ... you'll make a grim mistake if you invite a beginner to play with them, or a person who likes to do a lot of talking about this-and-that while playing cards. — MRS. BECKMAN.

Wounded Thief Escapes in Car

Four shots were exchanged in a police chase in Wellesley early today, and Patrolman Harry Pallidino reported he wounded a thief who escaped from a Washington st. garage in a stolen beach wagon.

Checking doorways on his beat, the officer heard noises in the rear of the garage. When he went to a back entrance, a man opened the front door and drove off in the stolen car, meanwhile firing a shot at the policeman.

Pallidino fired three times at the fleeing auto. One bullet missed, one hit the side of the car, and the third struck the driver, the officer said.

Marine Tells It

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC (delayed) — (INS) — A rare prize of war:

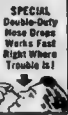

T-Sgt. William L. Perkins, 24, of Cairo, Ill., found two spies when he landed with the Marines at Guam.

They were of American make and in good shape—that is, condition.

Perkins doesn't know where the girdles came from or what he is going to do with them.

533 Set Example Of Blood Donation

If every day at the Boston Red Cross Blood Donor Center were like Thanksgiving, wounded men at the fighting fronts would never lack for plasma.

This was the announcement of officials there today as they disclosed that 533 donors each gave a pint of blood on the holiday. Donors included 250 Navy Yard workers, 100 American, British and French sailors, and two civilian members of the Two Gallon Club.

Carmine L. DiNenna, 40, of Hartford st., Dorchester, contributed his 17th pint of blood, and Christopher K. Maynard, 50, of Hereford st., Back Bay, gave his 16th.

Family groups of donors included Mrs. N. W. Dennison of Newton, her two daughters and her daughter-in-law. Membership of the Gallon Club, made up of donors who have given at least eight pints of blood, was increased by 51 members and membership of the Two-Gallon Club, those who have given 16 pints or more, by 12 new members.

A staff of volunteer holiday workers at the Center included many women with sons, husbands or daughters overseas. Among them were Mrs. James Arbuckle of Newton Upper Falls, mother of five sons in service; Mrs. William Doherty, a World War I nurse who has two daughters overseas, one a WAC, the other a WAVE; Mrs. Robert Stone, whose husband and five sons are overseas; and Mrs. Frank A. Adams, mother of two Army majors.

Marital Vacation Of Year Planned

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21 (AP) — There's nothing wrong, Actor Bob Livingston said, but he and his wife, Actress Dorothy Gee, are going to take a year's marital vacation. No divorce is contemplated, he said; it's sort of an experiment.

"Just as soon as we can find separate residences," he added, "I think we'll be better friends than ever."

The Livingstons have been married nine years and have no children.

O'Reilly-Collins Centennial Fete Set

John Boyle O'Reilly and Patrick A. Collins, two of the greatest of Irish-American leaders, will be honored at a meeting at New England Mutual Hall Sunday night—the 100th anniversary of their birth.

A distinguished committee of Greater Bostonians, including Gov.-elect Tobin, several mayors and leaders in the city's Irish societies is in charge. Presiding will be P. A. O'Connell, well known Boston merchant.

War End Omen

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 24 (AP)—Harold Nathan, FBI chief, related that two months after he took charge of the FBI office in Richmond, Va., in 1918, the Armistice was signed.

One week from today Nathan leaves San Diego, again to take over the Richmond office.

"If history repeats itself, Hitler should fold two months after I reach Richmond," said Nathan.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt writes every day for the Boston American.

Beaverbrook Urges Hands Off Spain

LONDON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express said today in an editorial that Great Britain should adopt a hands-off policy in any move to overthrow Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain.

"If Britain is wise, she will allow the Spanish situation to evolve without active interference on her part," says the Express. "By so doing, Britain will be free to take any advantage that may be offered by a change of government, without assuming responsibility for its defects, its crimes, or even its continued existence."

Fall From Beauty Starts Monk Film Ace on Spree

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24 (INS)—Most artists are temperamental, and Junior Cinnamon Ringtail, 13-year-old South American monkey playing his 39th screen part at Universal Studio, is no exception.

On the set of "Song of the Sarong," in which Junior is cast as the pet of a South Sea island princess played by Nancy Kelly, a long hard day was nearing its close.

Trainer David Wilford asked Junior to take one more ride on Miss Kelly's shoulder.

Junior attempted the stunt. But he was wearing a sarong, and when he extended his tail to curl it around Miss Kelly's neck for anchorage, he slipped and tumbled to the floor.

The humiliation was more than his artistic temperament could bear. He ran to a ventilator, and into the night.

Next morning, two stage carpenters saw Junior trudging, shamefaced, back toward the sound stage.

Anxious to help, they started for Junior, but the little animal ran squealing down the bank of the Los Angeles river and fell in. Back on the set, Junior was dried out, but he worked no more that day. Jimmie, his stand-in, carried the load.

Try FOR AMAZING RELIEF with FENUGREEK TEA

FENUGREEK TEA IS A NATURAL HERB—NOT A DRUG!

FENUGREEK is a natural herb that has given results to many when other methods seemingly failed. It has been said that FENUGREEK TEA is "A Cup of Good Health from the Good Earth."

A cup of this very pleasant tea is taken before meals (and upon retiring). This mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus helping to absorb by solvency, the poisons that may sometimes foster stomach troubles. It thus often acts quickly to relieve gas pains, sourness and belching.

Headaches, backaches and that tired-out feeling are often caused by toxic poisons that may enter the blood stream because of pockets of impurities in the intestinal tract.

Being a liquid mucous-solvent, FENUGREEK TEA naturally tends to flush out thick stagnant bile and also to assist flushing of kidneys. It is not a laxative!

FENUGREEK TEA helps flush out impurities which may have been inside you a long time. By helping to dissolve excess mucus, it can make your digestive organs feel sweet and clean. Try it today.

"If your physician has placed you on no solid or colitis diet you'll enjoy the soothing effects of FENUGREEK TEA."

The stomach lining is a series of small pits. Impurities cling to these pits, often causing indigestion. The regular use of Fenugreek Tea will very often help to cleanse these impurities.

Authors to Attend

SOCIALITE BOOK LOVERS will have a chance to meet face to face the authors of their favorite Christmas gift books at the first of this season's Authors' Luncheon Group meetings next Thursday at the Copley Plaza.

Special guests at the head table will be Anna Enters, internationally known actress, moving picture writer and author whose latest book, "Silly Girl," is her autobiography; Jesse Stuart, famous poet and writer, and Francis Dahl, celebrated cartoonist.

Mrs. Norman C. Hoffman

Mrs. Alexander Steiner is chairman of the group arranging the luncheon, her assistants including Mrs. John Moseley Abbot, Mrs. Larry Anderson, Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, Mrs. Daniel DeMenocal, Mrs. Joel Goldthwaite, Mrs. Edward Hayman, Mrs. James Lincolnton, Mrs. Leroy M. S. Murr, Mrs. Guy Waring, Miss Clara Edmond Sears and Mrs. Walter Merriam Pratt.

FOR THE BENEFIT of early Christmas shoppers the Junior League is opening its gay little United Nations Christmas Gift Shop Monday afternoon at 123 Newbury st. It will be stocked with interesting gifts from many nations, sold by gayly costumed representatives of the various war relief organizations.

Members of American Relief for Czechoslovakia will serve tea the opening day. Mrs. Norman C. Hoffman, 1st vice president of the league, and Margaret Amory, chairman of the provisional members, head the league's sponsoring committee. The window decorations are the job of Mrs. Marion L. L. Short, Mrs. J. Craig Huff, Jr., and Katharine Newbold.

AN EXHIBIT of Philip Evergood's oil paintings will be held at the Stuart Art Gallery, 433 Stuart st., beginning Monday, Dec. 4, as the opening event in Boston of Russian War Relief's national campaign for new warm clothing to be sent as Christmas presents to Russian children.

A special invitation press-up and tea will be held at the Gallery Dec. 3. The exhibit is planned by the Russian War Relief committee which has charge of the current Christmas campaign and includes Mrs. William E. Stanwood, Mrs. Theodorus DeFriez, Mrs. Landis L. Hamilton, Mrs. Alexander Samoiloff, Mrs. William E. Sedgwick, Mrs. Mark DeWolfe Howe Jr., Mrs. Thomas Morse, Mrs. Stephen H. Fritchman, Mrs. Benjamin Kraus, Mrs. Nora Flynn and Mrs. Ray Kierman.

ROUND AND ABOUT—Mrs. Edwin Holmes, 3d (Nancy Rice) is back home in Cohasset after visiting her Army husband in the midwest, and keeping busy by working in a little South Shore dress shop.

Vitamins Fail in Test On Normal Persons

CHICAGO, Nov. 24 (AP)—Physicians who conducted a 30-day vitamin-feeding experiment with 200 persons, at the Army's request, reported the "administration of vitamin supplements to a group of apparently normal persons, consuming the usual American diet, had no demonstrable beneficial effects."

The study, made at Duke University of Medicine at the request of the quartermaster general's office, U. S. Army, was published in the Journal of the American Medical Ass'n.

The authors, Dr. Julian Ruffin and Dr. David Cayer of Durham, N. C., said:

"At the present time the use of vitamins is widespread throughout the country, not only in the treatment of disease, but also by apparently normal persons."

"While no one would question the employment of vitamin therapy in frank deficiency diseases or even in suspected deficiency states, still one wonders if the indiscriminate use of vitamins, sold over the counter to people who have no obvious disease, is justified."

"It has been implied that, even when no demonstrable deficiency exists, one's sense of well-being and ability to perform work can be improved greatly by the addition of vitamins to the diet."

"As pointed out by the Council on Food and Nutrition and on Industrial Health (of the American Medical Ass'n) there is at present no conclusive evidence to substantiate this point of view."

STOP & SHOP

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

We are all very happy that the truckmen's holiday in Boston has been brought to an end. Since Tuesday night we have worked like beavers to restock Stop & Shop Supermarkets with fresh supplies of merchandise. At the present time our stocks of fresh meats, fish, and fruits and vegetables are once again back to normal. We have made rapid progress with grocery deliveries and expect that all stores will be well supplied within a very few days. We are deeply grateful to every person who was so helpful and co-operative during the past several trying days.

To Our Customers—

Thank you for your patience!

Fresh supplies of food have been rushed to your Stop & Shop Supermarket so that you can once more be offered a wide and varied selection of your favorite foods and brands at our regular low everyday prices.

To Our Employees—

Whose loyalty was firm and unwavering

To the many hundreds of Stop & Shop employees, with periods of service ranging from a few days to over twenty-five years, we wish to publicly record our thanks. Their unwavering and patriotic sense of duty to their job, to their Company, and to the public, often at considerable personal inconvenience, made it possible for most of our customers to receive almost normal service and supplies during the past few difficult days.

To Our Sources of Supply—

A sincere word of appreciation

We wish to thank our many sources of supply for their wholehearted and complete co-operation in assisting us to re-stock our stores with additional supplies of fresh foodstuffs. Their individual effort and initiative has helped us maintain our unbroken record of unfailing service to the public.

Plenty of Chills at RKO Boston

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

If you are the nervous type, better not walk down any dark streets after you've seen "Woman in the Window," the most exciting whodunit the screen has had in many moons. It is now at the RKO Boston.

This new Nunnally Johnson script isn't wholly a whodunit, because the audience witnesses the crime and sweats it out with Edward G. Robinson and Joan Bennett, while the relentless forces of law close in. The suspense is terrific, the acting and direction splendid, and the ending surprising and ingenious.

While the film was made, undoubtedly, strictly for entertainment, it also might be construed as having a moral; certainly it would give pause to any husband who might yearn for a little fling while the wife is on vacation.

Edward G. Robinson plays the role of a staid, middle-aged college professor, happily married and a devoted father, who, with no inclinations towards philandering, becomes involved in a mild flirtation with a glamorous young woman, and finds himself within a few hours a murderer and a hunted man.

It may not sound like anything very new, but be assured that you will hold your breath and agonize with Robinson, while his friend—the District Attorney—played skillfully by Raymond Massey—plies him with each new clue leading to the solution of the murder.

Joan Bennett is very good in the role of the mysterious girl who causes all the trouble, and Dan Duryea plays another of those despicable characters he does so well. Edmond Breon and Thomas Jackson give them excellent support.

Top honors, however, go to Johnson for the script and to Fritz Lang for the direction. Hal McIntyre's orchestra heads the well-rounded bill of vaudeville to make the Keith-Boston program this week well worth anyone's money.

Yanks Keyed To Upset Reds

Keyed up over the announcement that Herb Kopf had been made permanent head coach, the perfectly conditioned Boston Yanks will attempt to turn the National Football League upset of the year by taking the favored Redskins into camp down in Washington Sunday.

The unpredictable Yanks, fresh from their well earned triumph over the Brooklyn Tigers last week, have been priming for this Washington tilt all week. The players feel that they should have tied the Redskins last month when they dropped a 21-14 decision in Boston and intend proving that the closeness of that affair was no accident.

Actually, the Yanks have come a very long way since that game. It was after this tussle with the Skins that Coach Herb Kopf decided on revising his offense. The basic "Q-T" attack which he had planned did not click because of the fact that the personnel he had did not work into the system.

Instead of being stubborn and insisting that his attack was perfect, Kopf revised his "Q-T" to include spreads and semi-spreads so that he could add deception to his offense. The results have been most gratifying. The Yanks really looked like an offensive machine in their last four games which included two clashes with Brooklyn and singles with the Bears and Giants.

Another factor which has been of tremendous importance in the Yanks' upward surge is their superb condition. Kopf felt that since he would be outmanned most of the way, his club could balance that by being in much better condition than the opposition.

Bruins Show Real Power

By BILL GRIMES

Although there were three National Hockey League games played last night, the Bruins came up with the lone victory, beating the Toronto Maple Leafs 5 to 1 at the Garden. Out in the Detroit Olympia, the Red Wings came from behind to tie the Les Canadiens, 3-3, and the Rangers got a 4-4 draw with the Blackhawks in the Chicago Stadium.

The Bruins displayed more hustle and speed than in any of their previous games. They had a three man advantage over the Maple Leafs, who didn't act or even look like the fast powerful club they are. With Dave "Sweeney" Schirmer, who was the league's leading scorer, when forced out of action, and "Moose" Morris out of the lineup, Toronto isn't much better than an average club.

Capt. Bill Cowley scored a goal. He was credited with two assists and moved into first place in the race for individual scoring honors. Herbie Cain came through with two goals, while "Dit" Clapper and Pat Egan also beat Frankie McCool. Egan also set up Cain's second tally, while Jack Crawford, Bill Jennings and Paul Gladu all figured in scoring plays.

Judging from the way they kept the pressure on the Maple Leafs last night, the Bruins are rounding into shape. They set a terrific pace from start to finish. They are resting up today but will have a light practice session tomorrow to tune up for Sunday's game with the New York Rangers.

For the first time this season, the Maple Leafs are out of first place. The Bruins' 5 to 1 victory last night, plus the tie that the Canucks got in Detroit, severed the Toronto-Montreal deadlock.

The Toronto party that made the trip numbered only 13, including Coach "Hap" Day and Trainer Tommy Daly. Bill Ezimicki, who jammed with the Canadian military authorities early this week was taken into the army, "Sweeney" Schirmer and "Moose" Morris are on the injured list and the Canadian Mobilization Board refused to grant permission to Russ Johnson and Jackie McLean, who are students, to cross the border.

It was a goal by Capt. Bill "Flash" Hollett that gave the Red Wings a draw with the Canucks last night. Manager Art Ross is ailing and didn't attend the game. The governors of the National Hockey League will meet in New York on December 8. Pres. Mervyn "Red" Dutton will fly east from Calgary to preside. The Canadian Army finally caught up with Gordie Drillon, who was AWOL for a month or more.

Major Connie Smythe has been out walking of late and "Hap" Day reports that he looks great. Incidentally, Day is of the opinion that the blue lines will be eliminated within a year.

The Boston Olympics return action at the Garden tonight when they meet the Philadelphia Flyers for the first time on Boston ice. Tomorrow evening the New York Rovers will be here in their initial appearance to furnish the Flyers opposition for their second game in two nights.

The Olympics have already played Philadelphia and New York on the road this season, defeating both clubs by the identical score of 11-2. The Bostonians, however, had the benefit of a longer practice session—in Quebec City and in Boston—and since those league games both Philadelphia and Rovers have improved.

Says Sharkey Could Give Thompson Polish

By JACK CONWAY

WITH THE Thanksgiving Day holiday over, Boston boxing promoters looked to the future with greater confidence. Matchmaker Eddie Mack of the Callahan A. C. and "Rip" Valenti of the Goodwin A. C. feel that the ring game will now receive greater attention from the fans.

The Holy Cross-Boston College game at Fenway Park on Sunday will complete the important local football clashes, and from then on boxing will only have a serious competitor.

Eddie Mack dashed merrily from his Thanksgiving Day dinner table to his in-town office to announce four ten-round bouts he will feature at Mechanics Building on next Thursday night. The final of the ten-round offerings will bring together Howard Thompson, Saugus "white hope," and "Irish" Mickey Hayes, heavyweight champion of Wisconsin. Hayes has won 18 bouts by knockouts, and he is considered one of the most promising looking youngsters to be developed in the Middle West in recent years.

"If Thompson could get two months of training in the country with Jack Sharkey as his teacher, he would become one of the best heavyweights in the country in a short time," said Mack. "Thompson has shown improvement with each start, and I believe that when he can give more time to his training that he will click."

Thompson is a war worker at the Charlestown Navy Yard, and he has not the time to do as much training as he would like to do.

Coast Heavy to Box

IN THE semi-final, Elmer Ray, who is known as the "Flame Thrower," will have Earl Lounman of Detroit as an opponent. Ray comes from Los Angeles where he has established a reputation as a puncher. Lounman is a trial horse who manages to weather many a punch. He is slow and clumsy, but he manages to keep going.

Jimmy Mulligan of Lowell, who was knocked out by Lounman, will start on the comeback trail when he opposes "Tiger" Lou Jones of Birmingham. Mulligan gave away too much weight to Lounman and tired and was stopped.

The opening bout will bring together "Reddy" Evans of Paterson, N. J., and Herman Badger of New Haven.

Ray Robinson to Return

RAY (SUGAR) Robinson, uncrowned welterweight champion of the world, will collide with the best available opponent at a Goodwin A. C. show late in December or early in January. The Disabled Veterans' Fund of the American-Record-Sunday Advertiser will receive 10 per cent of the gross receipts of the Robinson bout, while Ray will also donate 20 per cent of his purse to this fund.

Robinson recently gave 20 per cent of his purse to the veterans' fund in Chicago. As a discharged soldier, he is eager to do everything possible for his injured and sick buddies.

Robinson does not intend to invade the middleweight division. While he could probably defeat any middleweight in the world, Robinson intends to restrict his efforts to the welterweight class.

MATCHMAKER Valenti is trying to arrange a Jimmy McDaniels-Ralph Zanelli bout for the Disabled Veterans' Fund. In his only Boston ring appearance, McDaniels outscored Billy Tordiglione. Zanelli then knocked out Tordiglione. The latter still showed the effects of his grueling tussle with McDaniels when he entered the ring against Zanelli.

McDaniels won from Zanelli in a bout in New York, and the Providence welterweight is eager to even the score. Zanelli is a better puncher than McDaniels, and if he can hit the Californian on the chin like he did Tordiglione he will have a fine chance to win.

Class A School Title Up in Air

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Four championships were handed out yesterday as the result of the traditional Turkey Day games. But the big title of all won't be known until a week from Sunday. The big one, of course, is class A. Malden was practically handed this honor up until two weeks ago when it was unceremoniously dropped from the select class by Somerville. Everett turned the trick against the Tornado by holding it to a tie and then came along Medford, a prohibitive underdog, to reduce the once high wind to nothing but a mild zephyr by holding it to a scoreless deadlock.

The two contenders for the crown, Salem and Peabody, got by their Thanksgiving obstacles to stay in the running and prolong the selection. Peabody had no trouble staying in as Dick Keon had a field day against Gloucester. But the other half of the tandem, Salem, had its hands full. The mighty Witches had to come from behind to nip Beverly and stay in the race.

O'DONNELL, MASTER COACH

Of the four titles settled three were in the class groups and the other in the Catholic league.

Saugus romped over Wakefield to take class B, but the Sachems have Everett and a handful of luck to thank for their diadem. Chelsea and Saugus were supposed to tie for that lead and by doing so would create an embarrassing situation because Saugus had already handed the Red Devils their only loss of the year. But the rating makers may have no fear. Everett fought tenaciously and tied Chelsea thereby giving Saugus a clear field.

The little wonder team of the state, Marlboro, coached by the famous Cleo O'Donnell, came through as expected over Hudson and took a long lead over second place Duxbury. Due to a misunderstanding between the teams over a certain night game earlier in the season, this was to be the roughest game of the year with nothing barred. But the officials had everything under control from the opening whistle and the game was very clean and one sided.

As far as standings go, this game doesn't count. But what if Saugus beats Peabody and Peabody goes on to beat Salem? If that happens why not hand Saugus the state title?

Down on the South Shore little Hanover trimmed Rockland by a lopsided count and by doing so clinched Class D honors.

The Hanoverians were out of football only six short weeks ago when the team was disbanded. But the townspeople came to the rescue and saved the day. The little squad repaid their elders by coming through and winning a title. Page Horatio Alger! The fourth title was divided. That's the Catholic League championship and for the first time in 11 years Malden Catholic didn't win it outright. This time there are co-holders, Malden Catholic and St. Clement's. The Somerville club surprised all by tying the heavily-favored former champions.

LOT STILL AT STAKE

The Lynn schools, Classical and English, get together for their annual battle at Manning Bowl Sunday but the big game of the coming weekend is the Monday game between Saugus and Peabody.

Okana paid $9.50, $6.30 and $5; Lu Bre $11.60 and $6.80, and Paperboy $4.

Eli Near 1st Perfect Season Since 1923

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 24 (AP)—Yale shoots for its first perfect football campaign since 1923 tomorrow when it opposes a strong University of Virginia eleven in its second intersectional battle in as many weeks against southern opposition.

The slightly favored Blue received stubborn competition last week before downing North Carolina, 13-6, for its seventh straight, and was prepared for an even tougher afternoon in the huge bowl Saturday in its 1944 finale.

Their 1944 records and past performances here in '40 and '41 indicate a thrill-packed fracas. Led by All-America Bill Dudley four years ago, Virginia nipped Yale, 19-14, and the following fall the Blue tallied all of its points in the second half, while holding the Cavaliers scoreless, to win, 21-19.

Both teams expect to be near top strength, Capt. Mac Whiting, ace guard, and Bill Montana, star center, having rejoined Yale, and Hank Walker, brilliant end, having returned to the Virginia lineup. They've been on the injured list, Whiting since Oct. 14.

Coaches Howie Odell of Yale and Frank Murphy of Virginia planned light drills this afternoon in the bowl.

Smith Candidate For Cawthon's Job

BROOKLYN, Nov. 24 (AP)—Latest candidate for the Brooklyn Tigers 1945 coaching job in the National Football League is Maurice "Clipper" Smith, formerly of Villanova and Duquesne. Since Pete Cawthon "resigned" in mid-season, the Tigers have been under the direction of Ed Kubale and Frank Bridges. Cawthon's assistants, the Tigers, who have lost eight straight, wind up their season by playing New York and Philadelphia on successive Sundays.

Johnny Kelly Wins Berwick Marathon

BERWICK, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP)—Winning the Berwick marathon title is settling to be a habit for Johnny Kelly of Acton, Mass., who hung up his third successive victory in the nine-mile grind Thanksgiving Day.

Kelly crossed the finish line 15 seconds ahead of "Scotty" Rankin of the Royal Canadian Air Force, who was seeking his sixth Berwick crown after a 7-year absence.

Six Die in Bomber Crash

Narrowly missing homes in San Diego, Cal., this Navy type B-24 bomber crashed into a hillside, causing deaths to six civilian crew members who were testing it. While firemen fought the flames, servicemen pulled the bodies from the wreckage. Witnesses said a part of the bomber's wing fell off the plane shortly before it plunged to earth.

Wooden Dobbin Fools the Yanks

This wooden horse, one of many left by the Germans on an airfield in Holland to confuse American fliers on missions over the area, is examined by a Yank airman after the flying field had been taken over by the Allies. Planes from this field are today aiding in the drive on Cologne where heaviest fighting of the western front is being waged.
